MAYNARD STILL LEADING; SMITH RESUMES FLIGHT

"Parson" Leaves Rock Island for Chicago; Westward-Bound Rival Uses Spatz' Plane When Latter Withdraws.

DONALDSON PASSES PEARSON IN WEST

Latter Forced Down by Condition of Machine; Kiel and Queens on Their Way Westward.

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—Capt. L. H. Smith, driving De Havilland airplane No. 61, flying from Mineola, N. Y., to San Francisco, on his return flight in the Army transcontinental air race, landed here from Buffalo at 1:05:30 p. m., making the 187 miles in 36 minutes.

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Capt. Belvin W. Maynard was given an ovation by a big crowd on his arrival here at 12:15 p. m., from Des Moines, having made the 158 miles in 35 minutes, breaking his record for the same trip by the course of his trip west. Maynard stated his engine "was hitting fine," and that he expected to continue on to Chicago in "about 45 minutes." The extra 15 minutes over the usual 30 minutes' stop was supposed to be for the purpose of receiving the tributes to be paid him by a big delegation headed by Rev. "Billy" Sunday and Mayor H. M. Schriver.

Pearson's Motor Damaged; Donaldson Passes Him.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 17.—Lieut. Alexander Pearson Jr., flying eastward on a return trip from the west to Mineola, N. Y., is probably one of the race because of damage to the motor of his plane, according to word received here from the air-plant control station at North Platte, where Pearson landed yesterday. Pearson is still at North Platte, while Capt. J. O. Donaldson, plane No. 50, has departed from there for the East.

By the Associated Press. BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Capt. Lowell H. Smith, flying in the air-plant plane used by Maj. Carl Spatz over more than half the course of the transcontinental contest, left here at 12:30:30 for Cleveland.

Maj. Spatz, who reached Buffalo this morning on his return trip to San Francisco, withdrew from the race, signifying his willingness to turn his machine over to Capt. Smith whose plane burned while undergoing repairs.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 17.—Lieut. Earl Manzelman, airplane No. 39, in the transcontinental air race, who left Salt Lake, 100 miles west of here, for this city at 7:15, this time, this morning, was reported arriving at Buena Vista field here shortly after 9 (mountain time).

Nineteen Have Made the Trip Across Continent.

By the Associated Press. MINNEOLA, N. Y., Oct. 17.—In the face of a northwest wind blowing 40 miles an hour, Lieut. E. C. Kiel, in a De Havilland four airplane, with Sgt. Frank McKee as a passenger, started on the return flight to San Francisco in the army's transcontinental air race at 9:42:00 o'clock this morning. He reached Birmingham at 11:28 a. m. Second Lieutenant Owens started west at 1:22:54 a. m.

Nineteen contestants have now made the transatlantic trip, 13 having landed at San Francisco and six in Mineola. Seventeen are nearing the last stages of the journey into San Francisco.

Maynard's Machine Ready This Morning for Flight.

By the Associated Press. OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 17.—Lieut. Belvin W. Maynard, the "flying parson," and leader in the transcontinental air race, who was forced to land near Wahoo, Neb., yesterday, when the crank shaft of his machine broke, "hopped off" about 8 o'clock this morning, and arrived in Omaha soon afterward. The crankshaft, but worked all night transferring a motor from the machine of Capt. Roy Francis, which had been wrecked near Yutan, Neb., causing him to withdraw from the contest, to Maynard's machine.

The pilot and his mechanic, W. C. Kline, are unable to state the cause of the accident. They say he was flying at an altitude of 3000 feet when the crank shaft broke and they veered to the cornfield. The machine was undamaged outside of the engine, and the occupant, or the ship were not injured.

WAITERS DEMAND SPECIAL SCALE FOR SERVING NOTABLES

Union Local Will Judge Whether Importance of Guest Justifies Higher Pay.

Henceforth when the President, or any foreign potentate or other notable person visits St. Louis, Local No. 20 of the Waiters' Union will first judge of the pittance of the guest for the purpose of applying the wage scale for waiters, before the entertainment may proceed.

A clause to this effect is embodied in the holiday section of the waiters' wage demand, served last evening on owners of hotels, restaurants and cafeterias James Scully, business agent of the union, explained that only the hotel or restaurant where the dinner for the distinguished guest is held shall be affected by the clause, which provides for $7 for six hours' or less of service.

The demands are for five days in the year to which the holiday, scale of $7 for hours less shall apply: New Year's eve, Fourth of July, Velled Prophet evening, Victory day and Labor day.

Steadily employed waiters shall have the nine-hour day and the six-day week, for which they shall be paid $13 and given meals, or $20 without meals. Cooks, pastry cooks and bakers have joined in the demands of the waiters, asking for the eight-hour day and the six-day week, with wages of $20 to $23 a week.

Stewards are virtually eliminated from the kitchen by a clause in the cooks' demands, which declares that stewards shall not be allowed to butcher, carve or work on the range. Scully said waiters now receive $19 a week and tips, which average about $1 a day.

The St. Louis Hotel Men's and Restaurant Keepers' Association will meet this afternoon to consider the demands.

ANOTHER SPECIALIST CALLED TO EXAMINE PRESIDENT

Dr. Hugh Young Will Determine Whether Operation Is Necessary to Relieve Prostatic Trouble.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—While President Wilson was feeling well this morning, his physicians said this afternoon the prostatic condition from which he had been suffering for several days was shocking, the general improvement of the past two weeks.

Another Specialist Called. Dr. Grayson announced that he had called in Dr. Hugh Young of Johns Hopkins Hospital of Baltimore, one of the foremost specialists in the country on prostatic troubles, and that he was expected at the White House some time today. During the morning the President was treated by Dr. Fowler, a Washington specialist, who was called in when the President first suffered this complication several days ago.

Dr. Young will make a thorough examination of the swelling of the prostate gland, from which the President had been free all day yesterday and the night before, returned in the early hours this morning and caused some irritation.

While the trouble might not be minor in character, Dr. Grayson said, there was no doubt that it had retarded somewhat the progress the President had been making toward recovery.

LABOR RECEIVES CAPITAL'S PLAN IN CONCILIATORY AIR

Employers' Group Offers Declaration on Bargaining and Sheppard Says It Promises an Agreement.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Following is the declaration by capital presented to the Industrial Conference today outlining the "utmost" concessions of that group on collective bargaining:

"Resolved, That, without in any way limiting the right of a wage earner to refrain from joining any association, or to deal directly with his employer as he chooses, the right of wage earners in private, as distinguished from Government, employment to organize in trade and labor unions, in shop industrial councils, or other lawful form of association, to bargain collectively, to be represented by representatives of their own choosing in negotiations and adjustments with employers in respect to wages, hours of labor, and other conditions of employment, is recognized; and the right of the employer to deal or not to deal with men or groups of men who are not his employees and chosen from among them is recognized; no denial is intended of the right of an employer and his workers voluntarily to agree upon the form of their representative relations."

The declaration reported yesterday by the committee of 15 with the approval of the public labor members of the committee follows:

"The right of wage earners to organize in trade and labor unions, to bargain collectively, to be represented by representatives of their own choosing in negotiations and adjustments with employers in respect to wages, hours of labor and relations and conditions of employment is recognized."

"This must not be understood as limiting the right of any wage earner to refrain from joining an organization or to deal directly with his employer if he so chooses."

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—With the introduction of a resolution by the capital group giving its views as to the right of collective bargaining a spirit of conciliation was manifested today in the national industrial conference.

L. E. Sheppard, head of the railway conductors' brotherhood, said he saw in the resolution a sincere effort at a closer co-operation between capital and labor in the meeting and declared that in his opinion the gathering was "just getting down to business."

Sheppard Says Agreement. The declaration of the Industrial Conference, which was adopted by a vote of 15 to 1, was a significant step toward a settlement of the long-standing dispute between the railway conductors and the railway management.

WAGES INCREASED

WORKERS IN CITY

Hours Have Been Reduced in Many Trades — Several New Locals Have Entered Ranks.

Organized labor in St. Louis, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, in the last five years has increased the wages of its members 20 to 92 per cent in 21 unions from which the Post-Dispatch has obtained official figures. Within this range are the other unions from which figures were not available.

The membership also has had a vigorous growth in that time, increasing from 15,000 in 1914 to more than 85,000 at present, according to David Kreyling, secretary and organizer of Central Trades and Labor Unions.

Several new unions have entered the organized fold in the last five years, the strongest of which is the street car men's organization, with nearly 6,000 members, the winning of their strike in February, 1918, starting a series of organization.

Below is a comparative table showing the hourly and weekly minimum wages of 1914 and 1919 paid to members of the 21 unions referred to above:

UNIONS.	1914.	1919.
Street car men	28c	50c
Bricklayers	28c	$1.00
Millwrights	28c	25c
Bridge and structural iron workers	28c	62c
Stationary engineers	28c	42c
Ship carpenters	28c	42c
Railroad carriers	28c	70c
Shipbuilders	28c	70c
Building laborers	28c	50c

UNIONS. Minimum Wage Per Week.
Plumbers $24
Printers $20
Barbers $20
Commercial $20
Paper $20
Transfer $20
To wagon $20
Furniture $20
Department store $20
Truck $20
Garment workers (women) $15

Hours Reduced in Many Trades.
The greatest reduction of working hours among the skilled trades was that of the shoe workers, who reduced the 59-hour week in 1914 to the 44-hour week, recently granted by the employer. The street-car men are next with a reduction from the minimum 10-hour day to the basic eight-hour day. Transfer teamsters reduced their day from 13 to 11 1/2 hours; barbers from 12 and 14 hours to 11 1/2 hours and a full day off each week. Printers have a 46-hour week and photo-engravers 44 hours. Bricklayers, carpenters and others of the building trades have the basic 8-hour day.

Walters receive $8 to $10 a week and tips. They work nine hours a day. Their scale was the same in 1914, but they are now asking for an increase. Waitresses, who had no union in 1914, have the 8-hour day and a basic wage of $10 a week, receiving also the tips. Those who work a 6-hour day receive $8 a week, and those who serve only at lunch-son time receive $5 a week.

Steel Workers Highest Paid.
The highest paid men in organized labor in the St. Louis district are steel workers, members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. At the National Enameling and Stamping Co., Granite City, Ill., they earn from $4.75 a day for laborers to an average of $225 a week for a few highly skilled rollers.

About the lowest paid skilled craftsmen are the car makers, who earn from $12 to $30 a week. Their increase since 1914 was about 10 per cent, and not more than 20 per cent in 20 years. Kreyling said. Competition, with low wages in Cuba and Porto Rico, and with cheap girl labor in other cities, Kreyling said, was responsible for this condition.

An agreement with contractors has been reached by which the carpenters will receive $1 an hour beginning Jan. 1 and plumbers will get $10 for eight hours beginning March 1, 1920.

ADJUTANTS GENERAL TO MEET
IN ST. LOUIS NEXT MONDAY

By the Associated Press.
TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 17.—University military training through the National Guard organizations and an independent staff of National Guard officers at Washington to handle guard organizations are among the subjects to be taken up next Monday at St. Louis, at a meeting of the Adjutants-General, called by Adjutant-General Charles I. Martin of Kansas, president of the association.

The Executive Committee of the National Guard Association also will hold a meeting at St. Louis, Monday.

Buyers Who Have Waited
Five Hours to Get Army
Food Want More Stores

Sales From Trucks in Various Parts of City
Suggested—Many Said to Depart Without Buying After Long Waits.

Thousands of persons who wait on the sidewalk for hours to get into the Government food store at Fourth street and Washington avenue, and the food and clothing store at Vandeventer avenue and West Belle place, are asking, as they stand in line, why the Government doesn't open more stores. Particularly emphatic are those who, after standing for many hours, are turned away at the closing hour because of the inability of the store to handle the crowds.

A Post-Dispatch reporter who stood in the lines for several hours heard the question repeated scores of times. Many persons were admitted only after having waited for more than five hours. Some waited longer. Most of these are women. Some are thoughtful enough to bring boxes, but most of them have to stand.

It has been suggested by those interested that it would be possible for the Government to send large army trucks to various points in the city, and sell from the trucks.

An effort was made today to learn at the Arsenal why some such measures are not taken to relieve the situation. Officers said that Col. D. S. Stanley, the zone supply officer, was the only man who could order it done. When a Post-Dispatch reporter sought a statement from Col. Stanley, he was told that the Colonel would not discuss it, and referred to the publicity agent, who said she was unable to give any information on the subject. She referred the reporter to Maj. Stanley Irwin, who said only Col. Stanley could answer the question. The Colonel again refused to talk, sending out word that "he had hired a publicity agent to answer all questions, and could not be bothered."

The stores opened Sept. 25, and the long waits have been a regular part of the daily procedure since then, with the lines growing longer from day to day.

The reporter, who stood in line, saw many instances that bordered on the pathetic. Many of the purchasers arrived in a holiday mood, but it ceased to be a frolic as the hours wore on, and the long lines, with persons standing three and four abreast, crawled almost imperceptibly toward the entrances. It was plain that only the determination to take advantage of the Government's low prices enabled the waiting ones to stay at their tedious task.

A heavy-set young woman about 25 occasionally left her place in the line to limp painfully back and forth across the sidewalk on French heels, carrying on her arm a 6-month-old baby. The baby cried fretfully. Its face was dirty, and so was the nursing bottle with which the woman vainly endeavored to quiet it. The baby looked entirely miserable. The reporter asked the woman how long she had been standing in line 6 1/2 hours.

"Since 8 o'clock this morning," she replied wearily. It was then 2:30 p. m. To other questions, she said that she had held the child in her arms all that time, and that she had not sat down since she arrived. She passed into the store at 3 p. m., after having been on the sidewalk seven hours, with not even a drink of water.

Another woman, apparently about 65 years old, sat on the curb with her feet in the gutter. She said she had been in the line four hours that time, and there was no prospect that she would get into the store in less than another hour.

"And, I just tell you, I'm all tuckered out," she said.

These were examples of the hundreds which made up the food lines. Rarely did any person who arrived after 10 o'clock in the morning get into the store in less than four hours. The only ones who obtained anything like prompt entry arrived before daylight.

Began Forming at 4 A. M.
The lines began forming this morning at 4 a. m. When the stores opened, at 8 o'clock, there was a food line three blocks long and a clothing line almost a block long at the West End store, and a food line almost four blocks long at the downtown store. Many shivers in the chill air of the early morning, and not a few pulled wraps around them that were obviously inadequate.

One of the inevitable results of the waiting is the forming of new acquaintances. Few women can stand that many hours with their elbows rubbing, and not talk to each other, and they don't. Women who never saw each other before 8 a. m., are by noon exchanging stories illustrating the failings of their husbands or the advantages of their daughters.

"I better get in today," said one. "I paid a girl 50 cents to take care of my children yesterday, and didn't get in at all. I've got to save at least a dollar today in my purchases to break even."

Man With Derby Suspicious.
A man in a battered derby and a blue shirt was suspicious of the whole proceeding. "How do you know what they are slipping in their friends at some other door?" he said, darkly. "We don't know anything about these politicians. What do they care about people like us? It's always this way when the Democrats are in."

SERGT. ELLIS GREETED BY MAYOR FOR CITY

Kiel Says St. Louis Wants Its Greatest War Hero to Contribute to Make Home Here.

Sergt. Michael B. Ellis of 1308 Cass avenue, whose single-handed capture or killing of 52 Germans with their 16 machine guns in one day is the outstanding accomplishment of the war of any St. Louis soldier, visited the city hall today at the invitation of Mayor Kiel, who greeted him in the name of the city.

I am honored by your coming to see me," the Mayor said. "St. Louis and America owe you a great debt. We do not clearly perceive the magnitude of the debt at this time, I fear, but five years will establish the perspective and we will know then fully what our soldiers have done for us. St. Louis wants you to come back and live here, and to continue your service and continue your home here."

The Mayor inquired of Sergt. Ellis how he accomplished the feat for which he has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Sergt. Ellis explained that once he had flanked his way to the rear of the enemy machine guns, he had them at his mercy and the enemy was willing to accept capture. The German seemed panic-stricken at the closeup sight of his enemy," he said, "and would surrender even if he saw only one American. It was necessary to kill only one or two of each squad. The remainder had their hands in the air at once."

As was told in the exclusive story in yesterday's Post-Dispatch of Sergt. Ellis' return home, he also wears the cross of a chevalier of the Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre with palm. He also was cited twice in general orders for feats similar to the one at Exermont, where he made his big bag.

lective bargaining came to the floor of the conference yesterday and was debated for three hours, but a vote was impossible as the conference had to adjourn at 5:30 o'clock under its rules. Virtual notice was given by members of the labor group that they would not stand in session since Tuesday in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, was held this afternoon. All officers were re-elected yesterday with the exception of Mrs. Lucile Loring Evans, who declined re-election as secretary of the Loyal Temperance Legion, and Mrs. Lillie Billington of Springfield was elected to that position. Traube, Jerseyville, recording secretary; Mrs. L. Belle Goodman, Champaign, treasurer; Miss Katherine Sawyer, secretary of the Young People's branch.

1008 OLIVE STREET

Policeman Beats and
Shoots Man Wife Met

Rib Deflects Bullet and Wound of Ice Wagon Driver Is Only Superficial.

Frank Link, 25 years old, a policeman of the St. Louis Police Department, followed his wife, Elsie, 23, from their home at 1608 South Thirteenth street, last night, and when she met Charles Sittie, 25, 3720 South Compton avenue, an ice wagon driver, at Ohio avenue and Keokuk street, beat Sittie with his "billy" and shot him. A rib deflected the bullet and Sittie's wound is only superficial. Link said the weapon was discharged accidentally as Sittie attempted to seize it.

Link took his wife to the Wyoming Street Police Station, where both were placed under arrest, later being released on bond. He was suspended, though it is understood that his superior officers believe that the circumstances justify his attack on Sittie.

Link, after following his wife to her meeting with Sittie, concealed himself to listen to their conversation. When he had heard enough to convince him that they were going together somewhere, he said, he stepped out and accused Sittie of breaking up his home. He struck Sittie, he said, when Sittie appeared to strike him and drew his revolver to take him to the police station. Sittie, he said, seized at the revolver and it was discharged.

Lieut. Deatherage and patrolmen started from the Wyoming Street Station in a patrol wagon for the scene of the shooting, and when about two blocks away saw a man on the curb turn and run. They followed and fired shots in the air. The fugitive stopped, threw his hands in the air and cried, "Take it all." He was Leo Meyer, 17 years old, 1748 1/2 avenue, and said that he thought the patrolmen were robbers.

Most of the Indians who are to furnish the Government's exhibition of basket making and blanket weaving have arrived, and were arranging their exhibit today. One of the basket makers is a woman 87 years old. The exhibits of the Boston and Brooklyn art museums, specimens of art workmanship and design, are expected to arrive by Monday. Some local exhibits which have been delayed were installed yesterday.

This is Woman Voters' day at the St. Louis Exposition of Industrial Arts and Crafts, in the Southern Hotel building, Broadway and Walnut street. Officers of the Missouri League of Women Voters will be in charge of tonight's program, and Mrs. Susan M. Boogher's play, "Conquered Worlds," will be produced in the theater.

but which she left in 1912 to become a Roosevelt Progressive. Her Democratic affiliations she explained, were due entirely to the demise of the Progressive element.

"I am one of those," said Mrs. Funk, "who believe that one live baby in the family is worth a whole graveyard full of dead ancestors."

Quoted Roosevelt's Speech.
She quoted from Roosevelt's speech in Chicago at the time of his revolt from the Republican party, in which he denounced some of the leaders of the party as "crooks and second-story men."

"The kind of prosperity we knew under Republicanism," she continued, "was that which enabled a handful of men to acquire 68 per cent of the country's wealth to the exclusion of all others. It was also the Republicanism—we have former President Roosevelt as authority for the statement—that conserved the great land-grabs of the Southern Pacific in the West and the financial and packing-house combines."

"Never in the history of the Republic has there been responsible leadership for progressive legislation like that which we have had in the last eight years. I refer to the Federal Reserve Act and the Farm Loan Bank measures."

"Congress Not Progressive."
"One of the great problems to be solved by women in politics is that of making Congress responsive to the will of the people," she said. "In the last 15 years Congress has never passed a progressive measure, except defensively. I mean that public opinion and the Chief Executive, Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, forced them to pass whatever bills were progressive in character."

Mrs. Funk attacked the statement of Mrs. McCarter that the league of nations was not a party issue. She asserted that every move of the Republican opponents of the league indicated that it was. She termed Penrose, Knox and Lodge as "killers," bent on wrecking the achievements of the war for selfish reasons.

The speeches were followed by an address by Mrs. George Gellhorn, president of the Missouri Woman Suffrage Association, who declared that it was the purpose of the new League of Women Voters to "help the politicians guessing, at least until after the registration in September, 1920."

Tells of League's Aim.
Mrs. Gellhorn described the League of Women Voters as an organization formed in the interest of women and children to look after the humanitarian problems of life. 32 ARRESTS FOLLOW ORDER AGAINST IDLING

Ten Holdups and Burglaries Reported—Girl's Escort Fights Highwayman at 8 P. M.

Under Chief O'Brien's order to round up all idlers, gunmen and thieves, policemen yesterday arrested 32 men suspected of being professional crooks, but nevertheless there were five highway robberies and as many burglaries last night and early this morning. Those arrested were booked for police court on a charge of vagrancy.

The front door of a Kroger grocery at Lillian and Union avenues, in Walnut Park, was broken open, and bacon, hams and oleomargarine valued at $25, were stolen. The safe was not molested as the manager, inspired by numerous recent safe robberies at other Kroger stores, had taken the precaution to remove the cash and leave the door open.

William Bunk was closing his cafe at 308 North Jefferson avenue at 9:30 p. m. when a negro struck him on the head with a club, knocking him unconscious and robbed him of $70. He suffered concussion of the brain.

Six men summoned a service automobile operated by Ben Childs, Edison Hotel, to Spring avenue and Olive street at 11 p. m. They said they wanted to go to Twenty-second and Mullanphy streets. When they reached that point two of them held up the chauffeur with revolvers, took $12.15 from his pockets, threw him from the car and drove away.

Joseph J. Tyndall, residing at the Planters Hotel, when escorting a young woman in the 4300 block in Westminster place at 8 p. m., was accosted by a highwayman who pointed a revolver at him and demanded his money. Tyndall struck the robber and they fought. They rolled about on the sidewalk until the robber, frightened by the screams of Tyndall's companion, fled. Tyndall was cut on the forehead.

Three men took $61 from Thomas

Heath, 9 South Twenty-second street, at the Frisco right of way and Mack-lind avenue at 7 p. m. Sam Cillo, 804 Wash street, was robbed of $4.75 by two men at Broadway and Franklin avenue.

Burglars climbed a fire escape and smashed a second-floor window at the storage house of the Metzweur Baking Powder Co., 211 South Third street. They took 27 gallons of alcohol valued at $135.

Jewelry and clothing valued at $1400 were taken in burglaries at the homes of Harry Luecke, 2238 North Market street; William M. Smith, 1405 Missouri avenue, and

Mrs. Hattie Ray, 121A East Iron street.

D. S. C. FOR BRAVERY IN 1905

Wilson Orders Retroactive Award to Philippines Fighter.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—In the first retroactive use of systems of awards for gallantry put into effect during the present war, President Wilson has directed that the distinguished service cross be awarded to Capt. Henry L. Harris Jr. for bravery in action in the Philippine island in 1905. He was then a Lieutenant in the Twenty-second Infantry and, according to the citation, "gallantly and fearlessly directed the movements of the most exposed part of the firing line, and without regard for his personal safety, was the first man to enter the stronghold of the enemy," during the fight before Perak-Utig's Cotta, island of Jolo, on May 3.

Capt. Harris, whose home is in Nutley, N. J., retired from the army in 1909, but returned to the service in 1918 and now is serving at Newport news.

New U. S. Destroyer Launched. CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 17.—The United States torpedo boat destroy-

ROTARY CLUB DISAPPROVES OF 7-HOUR DAY FOR CITY WORKERS

Resolution Also Passed Upholding Judge Gary's Stand in Steel Strike.

The Rotary Club, at its weekly meeting yesterday, passed a resolution censuring the city administration for establishing a seven-hour day for city employees, and asked that it be changed so that no city employees will work less than eight hours a day.

It also passed a resolution, which will be sent to E. H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, endorsing "your patriotic and all-American stand in refusing to arbitrate the principle that every citizen has the inalienable right to earn a living in any lawful manner he may choose, and regardless of whether he belongs to any particular association or organization."

Mayor Kiel said today that the Rotary Club has misunderstood the situation. The city hall is open, as always, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., he said, and employees there get an hour for lunch, making seven working hours. The City Hospital employees work 12 hours a day, and all union employees work eight hours a day, he said.

The proposal to introduce an ordinance making the seven-hour day authoritative for city employees is strongly condemned by the club, which states in the resolution that it is the particular duty of officials to save labor and encourage production, which, it thinks, would not be accomplished by the seven-hour day.

FORMER SOLDIER GETS LIFE TERM FOR BECKER MURDER

Jury Finds J. M. Dougherty Guilty of Part in Killing of Gambler, April 14.

John T. Dougherty, 21 years old, 1904 Papin street, a discharged soldier, was sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday afternoon by a jury in Circuit Judge Kiene's court for the murder of Henry (Kiki) Becker, professional gambler, in front of Becker's home, 3165 Russell avenue, April 14, last.

Dougherty had repudiated a confession he made to policemen following his arrest a short time after the shooting. He admitted he was with three other men, who, with him, were jointly accused of the crime, in the afternoon, but said he was two blocks away when Becker was held up and shot in the evening.

Thomas Hunt was sentenced to life imprisonment for the crime a month ago. John O'Brien is still to be tried. Ben (Dicky) Kahmann, the fourth man under indictment, is a fugitive.

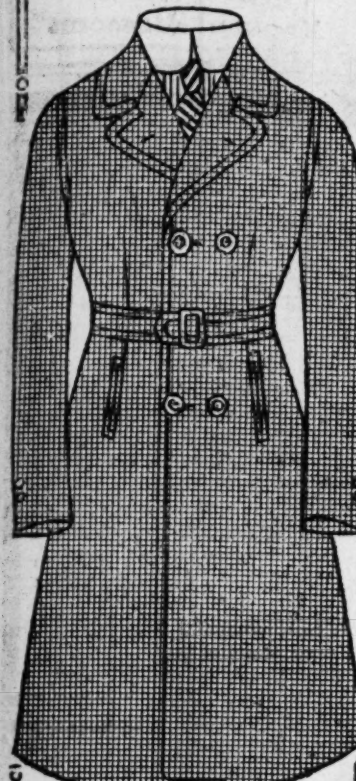

COUNTY FAIR AT RAILROAD Y

An army tank will give demonstrations of crushing trucks and boxes on the midway at the fourth annual Lincolnville County fair tonight and tomorrow night at the Railroad Y. M. C. A., Twentieth and Eugene streets. This demonstration will take place just before the fire show by the City Fire Department.

The Missouri School for the Blind, the city library, the public schools and the Academy of Sciences will have exhibitions and an immense showing of war relics and trophies has been arranged with the co-operation of the local army, navy and marine offices.

There will be dancing in the hut all evening. The Queen of the carnival will be crowned Saturday evening at 10:30 and will receive a gold mesh bag.

WHISKY STILL FOUND IN COUNTY
While Public Administrator Mueller of St. Louis County was conducting a sale yesterday at the home of Pietro Scallone, a Bissell's road farmer who was found murdered on Oct. 2, he noticed a gathering of flies at a particular point on the premises. Investigating he found a copper whisky still, two barrels of freshly made sour mash whisky and a quantity of barley corn and oats. He poured the whisky onto the ground, despite offers for its purchase. He sold the still, however.

The Misses' Store Announces for Saturday A Special Selling of Suits and Coats

A FORTUNATE purchase of Suits and Coats makes it possible for us to offer them at these very special prices. They are splendid, well tailored garments, made of the various materials popular this season.

THIS is truly a most opportune purchasing event for people who desire attractive, well-made garments of good material. Very rarely are such favorable prices placed on goods of this character.

Misses' Tailored Suits Afford Generous Savings

at $42.50

A SPECIAL purchase from a fine suit-maker enables us to offer these distinctive Suits at such a low figure. Late delivery caused him to make great price concessions, and we, in turn, make concessions to you.

The Suits are snappy tailored models, often showing the ripple skirt coat, yet there are many of the youthful high-waisted models. The materials are velour and silvertone, and the colors largely navy and brown. There are just 35 Suits in the lot, so early choosing is imperative. Sizes 14 to 20 years. (Third Floor.)

Misses' Coats Present Great Values at $35 and $45

UNUSUAL Coats are these, to be priced at such low figures; quite the smartest styles to be found are they as well. The assortment is large, so that she who wears the coat will be delighted with the attractive blouse, loose back and belted styles. And she who carries the purse, approve of the excellent tailoring of the fine silvertone, Bolivias, mixtures and velours to be had at these modest prices. Sizes 14 to 20 years. (Third Floor.)

For Smarter Wear A Velvet Skirt Especially When $12.75 Priced at

WHEN Fashion decided to show favoritism to separate Skirts, her fondest glance fell on those of velvet. We are making a special showing of very clever velvet skirts made with shirred tops, wide belt and cut-in pockets. They are indeed wonderful values at the figure we are quoting.

In addition, there are fetching velvet Skirts with the fabric pile so pressed as to make a diagonal plaid. These are cleverly made with a center front seam, roll plait back, and button trimmed pockets. The colors are black, brown and taupe. These are priced from $18.75 to $27.50 (Third Floor.)

Women's Coats Offer Good Buying

At $29.75—Well made, comfortable Coats of good appearance, of velour, are very good values at this price. They are carefully tailored, showing belted designs, deep collars and half linings.

At $39.75—Coats which make a forceful appeal are these. Wool velour, heather mixtures and diagonal mixtures are the materials. The lines are especially good. Some are trimmed with fur collars, and many have full silk lining.

WILLIAMS CHARGES IRISH INTIMIDATION

Senator Says His Life Is Threatened and Denounces Use of Hyphen in America.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Senator Williams, Democrat, Mississippi, in the debate on the peace treaty in the Senate yesterday afternoon, declared he had recently received many threatening letters, "some unsigned, and many signed with O— or Mc— something."

"I have received several threats of assassination," he said, "but I don't mind assassination. I am perfectly aware that the friends of Irish freedom have been packing these galleries of late and I am perfectly well aware that in making this speech I have openly defied the scoundrels who have threatened me with assassination."

"Sinn-Fein Physician."
Senator Hitchcock, administration leader, tried to stop Williams, but the Mississippian continued.

Senator Phelan of California and Senator Gerry of Rhode Island, Democrats, replied to Williams' remarks.

Senator Williams moved over to the front row of the Republican side of the Senate and began waving a copy of the resolution adopted by the Confederate Veterans endorsing the league of nations. After delivering an eulogy on the veterans, he assailed the Johnson amendment, giving the United States as many votes in the assembly as the British empire as "a Sinn Fein physician."

Then he recalled that some one had recently given the Irish credit for defeating the South in the Civil War.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "the Irish never whipped the South at all. They could not whip the South in one county. It is a part of the bragging nature of the Irish. I am tired of this vanity and nonsense. I do not care how many Irishmen vote the Democratic ticket."

Senator Hitchcock moved over to the Republican side, and taking a seat beside the Mississippi Senator, tried to persuade him to desist.

"I am prepared to support the Senator from Massachusetts, Mr. Lodge, against the Senator from Massachusetts, Mr. Walsh, in an appeal to every man, not an Irishman, in Massachusetts, and at a proper time I shall do it, because I rather prefer men who bludgeon us than men who poison us," Senator Williams continued.

"I am tired of this whole Irish pretense. They never won the war of the revolution, as they contend they did. I am tired of this eternal lie. I am tired of the intimidation that I have received at my office for three or four months, most of the letters signed anonymously. A great many of them are signed with a 'Mac' or an 'O.' If they think I am afraid of them, or a hundred of them, or a thousand of them, they are mistaken. I understand their game. It is that the Democratic party dares not defy the Irish vote. As I understand the situation the Democratic party is not defying anybody."

Signed "Mc" or "O."
"But, all the same, they write to me with a 'Mc' or an 'O' and threaten me with all sorts of punishment. Amongst other things, I have received threats of assassination. Why, I do not mind assassination. It is the easiest and cheapest way of going off the surface of the earth that a man ever measured up."

"I find this amongst the contention of these men who are opposed to the league of nations—that while they are constantly emphasizing what they call Americanism, they mean by it pre-Germans and Irish-Americanism. Magyar-Americanism and Austrian-Americanism. We have finally reached the point where no man can be a real American unless he is an Irish-American or a German-American or some other sort of a hyphenated American."

"Just Americans."
Senator Hitchcock made another effort to shut off the speech, but gave up and then moved back to the Democratic side. Senator Williams proceeded: "I do not think these gentlemen have measured up as the consequence. Suppose that we English and Welsh and Scotch-Americans, who have never called ourselves Irish, but have just called ourselves American, dare to unite in a single party and announce to the American people that every man in America who is Scotch or English or Welsh, or a son of the descendant of one of those races, shall form one single party, where would these others of whom I speak be?"

Senator Phelan, of Irish blood, was on his feet. Senator Brandegee of Connecticut had the floor, however, and Senator Phelan had to reply to Senator Williams in the form of an interrogatory. "I would like to ask the Senator if he thinks it perfectly fair for a Senator to leave this side of the chamber and taking his place on the other side make a speech, which in the eyes of strangers looking down upon this body might be attributed to a member of the Republican party?" asked Senator Phelan. Loud laughter broke out in the Senate and in the galleries.

Senator Phelan continued: "I desire further to ask this question, if the Senator would consider it appropriate for the managers of the Dublin horse show to post upon the gates of the enclosure, during the intermission between the races, that these gates are closed in order to prevent the escape of 'Welchers,' or would the Senator think that in making a comparison between the Irish in battle and the Irish in peace, that the South, having accepted the situation and yielded to superior forces, should also record such conduct on the part of the Irish, who fight, but never surrender."

Senator Gerry also praised the patriotism of the Irish.

POLICEMAN FRACTURES SKULL OF YOUTH TRYING TO ESCAPE

Boy Driving Stolen Car Ignores Traffic Signal and Is Captured After Chase.

A youth who said he was James Hamilton, 18 years old, of Marquand, Mo., was clubbed on the head with a revolver by Traffic Policeman Frank Harris in an alley adjoining Central Police Station at 3 p. m. yesterday, after he had tried to escape from the policeman.

Harris, who directs traffic at Sixth and Market streets, had signaled east and west traffic to proceed when the youth, driving a seven-passenger touring car north on Sixth street, ignored the signal. Harris pursued him in another automobile and caught him at Ninth and Chestnut streets.

When they arrived at the front door of Central Police Station the prisoner ran and as Harris was chasing him through the alley the fugitive threw away a "billy." Harris drew his revolver and at his command the youth turned and held up his hands. Harris reported that when he caught up with the fugitive the latter reached for a pocket. The policeman, believing that he was armed, struck him on the head several times, knocking him unconscious. At the city hospital it was found that the prisoner's skull was fractured.

The automobile was identified as belonging to Nils Grant, 7003 Hancock avenue, real estate dealer, who said that it had been stolen from Sixth and Walnut streets.

HANNIBAL JAIL UNDER GUARD TO PROTECT NEGRO PRISONER

Boy Accused of Attacking Woman's Throat by Crowd at New London, Mo.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Oct. 17.—Armed men are guarding the Hannibal City Jail to protect Charles Day, a 15-year-old negro who was wounded at New London, Mo., yesterday by William Stout. Day had attacked Mrs. Stout in their farm home. Day surrendered to Sheriff Tom Clark of New London late yesterday and was taken away to Hannibal in an automobile while a crowd was being formed, threatening to lynch the negro. Trouble was expected at Hannibal last night and several army rifles were pressed into service to be used in any emergency by order of Chief of Police J. R. Harris.

After attacking Mrs. Stout, Day escaped to his home, where he was shot in the head and shoulders by Stout. Despite the wound Day escaped to the fields and a posse of 50 men and bloodhounds from Hannibal sought him the entire night. When the feeling dies down in New London the negro will be taken to the County Jail there.

SEARCH OF LAKE FOR TRACE OF CAPT. DAMMANN CONTINUES

Boats Are Going Over Vicinity Where Body of His Aid, Lieut. Verheyden, Was Found Yesterday.

The search by eagle boats and organized parties afoot for trace of Capt. Carl W. Dammann, 5614 Hartford street, pilot of the balloon "Wichita," which was wrecked in Lake Huron Oct. 2 during the national championship balloon race, continues today on Lake Huron, Georgian Bay and along the Canadian coast of those waters. No trace of Capt. Dammann was found yesterday, according to a telegram received last evening.

The finding of the body of Lieut.

Edward J. Verheyden Jr., 5244 Theodosia avenue, six miles from Tobermory, Ont., where the balloon was picked up, indicates that Capt. Dammann's body is in that vicinity. Lieut. Verheyden's body was taken to Tobermory by Capt. Cole and is being prepared for shipment to St. Louis.

GRAND-LEADER

In the Men's Store Across the Street, at Seventh Overcoats From the House of Kuppenheimer

THE best thing we can say about an Overcoat is that it comes from the House of Kuppenheimer, and the best thing a man can do nowadays is to pay particular attention about the make of his clothes, their quality and their character.

You will make no mistake when you select a "Kuppenheimer" Coat. We are confident of that, and our reputation is back of our judgment.

We would not recommend "Kuppenheimer" garments as strongly as we do unless we are certain that they will give absolute satisfaction. Years of experience have demonstrated this fact to us.

The new models in double-breasted Belaire Overcoats and the Topcoats are shown in great variety.

We might mention their trade names, but unless they were illustrated they would mean nothing to you.

Do Not Pay Exorbitant Prices

Diamonds are not high and can be bought cheap, and we are willing to prove it to you if you are interested, and will come over to our place and be shown how to buy them right.

We have to offer for the first time to the public a $100,000 stock of diamonds, loose and mounted (in platinum and gold) of the latest designs, which has not been redeemed by persons of having pledged them to us in our loan department. We wish to allow the public to avail themselves of this opportunity instead of selling these unredeemed pledges to dealers and jobbers, which is the usual custom.

Don't miss this chance to start on that diamond for Xmas. A small deposit will hold any article for you. You will be surprised at the magnificent assortment we have to show you.

Just three blocks from Washington avenue, and one or two more from downtown, but it will pay you to come over. Again we say, diamonds are cheap. (From Missouri—all right, we will show you.)

OLD TIMES RECALLED AT FILLEY LUNCHEON

C. of C. Honors Former Mayor, 90 Years Old Today, Who Was Republican Leader Here.

The election of Mayor Kiel, Republican, for a third term, in the absence of sufficient Democratic voting strength to defeat him, was suggested yesterday by David R. Francis, Democrat, United States Ambassador to Russia, at a luncheon at the Planters Hotel, given by the Chamber of Commerce in honor of Chauncey I. Filley, former Mayor of St. Louis, who is 90 years old today. Filley was elected Mayor in 1883.

Francis told of his own election to the mayoralty in 1885 and his service in that office for four years and said:

"The progress which was made in my term as Mayor has paled into insignificance beside the progress which the city has made in the last four years under the administration of Mayor Kiel. It would seem that this city is Republican. That being the case and if a Republican must hold the office I am sure I voice the sentiments of everyone here when I say Mayor Kiel should be elected for a third term."

The Chamber of Commerce members at the dinner loudly applauded this utterance.

Recalls "the Filley Hat."

Former Mayor Filley, once the Republican political leader in St. Louis, recalled bygone days when he arrived at the hotel wearing the type of headgear once known to fame as "the Filley hat," with its round, flat brim and the crown in the form of a truncated cone.

The birthday guest shared honors with Sergt. Michael B. Ellis, St. Louis' greatest individual war hero, who attended the luncheon and was introduced and warmly praised by Chairman Francis. In a brief and modest reply, Sergt. Ellis said better and braver than he had met the supreme sacrifice. "I just took the chance of going about alone," he said, "and somehow I accomplished what has been read to you."

It had been planned to have all the living former Mayors of St. Louis at the luncheon. Of these only Francis, Edward A. Noonan and Frederick H. Kreismann were there. Rolla Wells was out of town and Cyrus P. Walbridge was ill.

Kiel a Pupil of Filley.

Mayor Kiel spoke in eulogy of Filley, from whom, he said, he learned his first political lessons. He recalled the days when after a Republican victory Filley would sound his famous slogan: "Boys, we got 'em, and we're going to keep 'em got." The Mayor concluded his speech with an appeal for the support of the proposed $22,000,000 bond issue for public improvements.

Former Mayor Noonan and former Mayor Kreismann paid tribute to the guest of honor, praising his Americanism and his devotion to sound principles in the period of his political power.

Filley made a speech in which he gave a sketchy outline of his life in St. Louis for nearly 70 years. He told of coming here from Troy, N. Y., in the early 50s when it was necessary to change cars five times before getting out of the State of New York and when the journey to St. Louis by rail and water consumed more than a month.

He told of St. Louisians whom he knew in those early days and of his friendship for McKinley, Hanna and other national Republican leaders. At the close of his speech he aroused much enthusiasm by waving an American flag which he took from his pocket and telling how he had prophesied that the day would come when American goods would be shipped all over the world "in American bottoms, under the Stars and Stripes."

CARPENTER GIVES C. OF C. BODY MORE CENSURE ON GARY STAND

Secretary of District Council Says Referendum Vote Should Have Been Taken.

Further censure of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce for its endorsement of the stand of E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, toward that company's striking steel workers, was addressed to Jackson Johnson, president of the chamber, yesterday by J. W. Williams, secretary of the Carpenters' District Council.

The Building Trades Council, as is known, passed resolutions declaring that the board of directors' action was not the sentiment of the chamber membership. This council has a membership in the chamber.

Williams declares that if the Chamber of Commerce thought it necessary to express some opinion on the steel situation that the proper procedure on so important a subject would have been a referendum of the membership. He asserts that labor in St. Louis never has received its due for its share in keeping production up and industry going here. He declared that labor was acting as the city's greatest protection against unrest and Bolshevism.

C. OF C. HAS TASK OF RAISING $500,000 MORE FOR HOME FUND

When $1,000,000 Mark Is Reached,
Work on Model Homes for Workers Will Be Started.

The task of obtaining $500,000 more in subscriptions to the Home and Housing Association has been allotted to the 72 subdivisions of the Chamber of Commerce, making each subdivision responsible for a certain amount. The subdivisions follow the lines of trade, such as the insurance group, the banking group, paper group and so on.

Each subdivision has a committee of five. The chairmen of these committees met at the University Club Tuesday night to work out the details of the plan. About $675,000 has been subscribed, and when $1,000,000 has been reached, work of constructing groups of model houses for workmen will be started.

Members of the Finance Committee consisting of W. A. Layman, R. H. Stockton, M. L. Wilkinson, A. L. Shapleigh, Tom W. Bennett, E. W. Stix and Jackson Johnson will meet today to evolve plans for raising the remainder of the $2,000,000 fund.

CREDIT MEN HEAR PRICE FIXER

Under-Production and Treaty Delay Cause High Prices, He Says.

Circuit Attorney McDaniel, who is serving as Fair Price Commissioner for Missouri, spoke before the Credit Men's Association at the City Club last night. He said great care was necessary in the work of determining fair prices, which must be considered from the standpoint of producer, wholesaler, retailer and consumer.

McDaniel said that the delay in ratifying the peace treaty was one of the causes of continuing high prices, but that the chief cause was under-production.

There's only one way to get rid of a corn, and that is to peel it off as you would a banana skin. There is only one corn remover in all the world that does it that way, and that is "Gets-It." It is because of this fact that "Gets-It" is today the biggest seller among corn removers on this planet. It means the end of "corn-budding." For hard corns, soft corns, very old corns, young corns, corns between the toes and calluses, it means a quick, certain finish. "Gets-It" is applied in 2 or 3 seconds. All you need is 2 or 3 drops. As easy to do as signing your name. It does away forever with tape, plasters, bandages, knives, corn-diggers, scissors, files and blood-bringing razors. Ease your corns pain, corn-free at last. "Gets-It," the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Sold in St. Louis and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Judge Delish Drug Co., Wolf-Wilson Drug Co., Enderle Drug Co., Pauley Drug Co., Keller Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Winkelmann Chem. and Drug Corp.

NO U. S. MEMBER IN CO-ORDINATION BODY

Supreme Council Will Name Committee From Powers That Already Have Ratified Pact.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Oct. 17. — Immediately after formal ratification of the treaty of peace with Germany the supreme council of the peace conference probably will name a co-ordination commission, the duties of which will be to decide what bodies shall have jurisdiction over matters not definitely assigned by the treaty. This commission will, in a way, carry on part of the work which has been performed by the supreme council which is expected to close within six weeks.

Manifestly the United States cannot be represented on this co-ordination committee until she ratifies the treaty. General regret is apparent over the impossibility to start off all the commissions created under the treaty with a full membership from the great powers, as it would be much simpler if of the permanent members of the various commissions could begin work simultaneously. In the Rhineland the Belgian, French and British members of the Inter-Allied Commission of which an American will be the fourth member probably will be empowered by their Governments to proceed with civil administration in spite of the fact the Rhineland convention requires American co-operation. In American occupied territory military control will be continued by common consent until the United States Senate ratifies the treaty and makes the establishment of civil government possible.

The co-ordination commission will have lesser powers than those held by the supreme council. Its members will not be plenipotentiaries, but will be required to refer important matters to their various foreign offices for decision.

The work of the American delegation will be largely advisory; but there is a general disposition to consult American representatives on all important matters relative to the execution of the treaty terms.

TWO PRODUCE MEN HELD FOR GOVERNMENT ON FRAUD CHARGE

Warrant Alleges They Made False Promises to Pay 4 Cents Above Market Price.

Offering to buy eggs and poultry at 4 cents above the market price caused the issuance of a Federal warrant today against Herman A. and John Klaas, brothers, in business at 509 Wash street under the firm name of the Calhoun Produce Co., charging them with a scheme to defraud.

The warrant alleges that A. F. Beck & Sons, Conant, Ill., shipped to the Calhoun Co. a consignment of eggs and chickens in response to a circular sent out by the St. Louis concern that it would pay 4 cents more than the quoted market price for the produce, and that the shippers failed to receive the money due them. The warrant further charges that the same form of letter was sent by the brothers to other producers, and that it contained false representations and promises. When arraigned the defendants pleaded not guilty and were released on bonds.

Herman Klaas, discussing the charge, said that he had mailed a draft to Beck & Sons, and then, after a moment's study, said that he believed he had mailed the draft to Conant, Mo., instead of to Conant, Ill.

TUG-OF-WAR ACROSS LAGOON TO REPLACE W. U. FLAG RUSH

Student Council Will Revive Freshman-Sophomore Contest in Less Strenuous Form.

A ducking in a Forest Park lagoon is the most serious discomfiture that can occur in the revived freshman-sophomore fight this year at Washington University, on the day before the annual Thanksgiving day game with St. Louis University.

The university student council has arranged to have a tug-of-war across one of the lagoons to take the place of the annual flag rush, which was discontinued in 1916 after one student was temporarily blinded and another seriously injured. Park officials have promised that the water in the lagoon will not be deep enough to endanger the students.

Since the freshman class greatly outnumbers the sophomore class the council has decided to allow one freshman for every sophomore participant. Following the tug-of-war a supper for students and alumni will be held in the Francis gymnasium. After the supper the freshmen will burn their "ink spot" caps and the sophomores will bury the hatchet in a mock funeral service.

GLINKING GLASS BETRAYS YOUTH

The clink of glass attracted the attention of two detectives in the midway at Union Station at 8 o'clock last night and they arrested Arthur Cross, 18 years old, Little Rock, Ark., who was carrying two suit cases to a train. A search disclosed both suit cases were filled with bottled whiskey.

Cross said the liquor belonged to a man he met in Little Rock, who had asked him to call for the suit cases at a restaurant in this city, where they had been left for "a long time." He said he was doing a favor for the man in taking the whiskey to Arkansas. He was held.

ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL PARK PLAN DESCRIBED

Magazine Outlines Oyster Bay
Project to Be Financed by Popular Subscriptions.

An illustrated description of one of the memorials to Theodore Roosevelt, toward which St. Louis citizens will be asked next week to give $80,000, is contained in the current issue of Scribner's Magazine. It is a public park in Oyster Bay, Roosevelt's home, and is described by the architects. Some other memorial, of a character yet undetermined, likely will be established in Washington from the residue of the $800,000 fund which is expected to be raised nationally.

The proposal for the park has been approved in general by the Memorial Committee. The architects place as their first illustration a flagpole with a monumental base standing in silhouette against the bay, on the edge of a plaza of formal design, which is the central spot of the park. The comment on the proposal for the flagpole is: "It will be forever reminiscent of the Colonel's intense love for the American flag."

Auditorium Part of Plan.
Another of the features of the park will be an outdoor auditorium typifying the democracy of Roosevelt and his tenet that the people shall be heard. The plan provides that the walls of the auditorium shall be formed by a double colonnade of high-foliated elms, "beyond whose trunks one may look out upon the bay and toward Sagamore Hill." A still further plan is to ultimately include Sagamore Hill in the park, thus preserving for the public the residence of the Colonel.

An illustration of a lagoon, which is contemplated, across the central plaza from the outdoor auditorium and which again utilizes elm trees prominently, is accompanied by this comment: "The architects have called for the use of tall-trunked elms for much of the formal part of the composition. At the end of the lagoon there may be an interesting fountain and beyond it a long approach from the west between thickly planted native American shrubs and low-growing trees, laurel, wild honeysuckle, dogwood, beech and ash forming a dark foliage in contrast to the gravel walks."

At one extremity of the park and across a slip which will bring the waters of Oyster Bay into the park for a boat landing is a tract on which it is proposed to lay tennis courts and baseball diamonds and establish a bathing beach, and playground equipment for children.

The architects further express their beliefs as follows: "The site for the memorial has an outlook of great beauty. It may be developed in either a naturalistic or formal manner or there may be a combination of the two. It is important to stress considerably the formal theory of its composition if we are to obtain not only the greatest beauty, but a distinctive memorial feeling in the design. Other things being equal, the best things in art invariably are the simplest and the plans here shown embody but few main elements."

The architects are Electus D. Fitchfield and Rogers. James L. Greenleaf is consulting landscape architect.

The St. Louis campaign will open in churches Sunday, the taking of subscriptions following on Monday.

In order that St. Louisans in every part of the city may subscribe to the fund the Executive Committee in charge of the campaign announced last night that the banks have been designated as receiving stations for subscriptions. All subscriptions may be made at these banks. In addition regular subscription lists will be sent out by the Executive Committee to the industrial plants and commercial houses of the city and are to be returned direct to the committee's headquarters at 510 Locust street.

Representatives of every railroad entering St. Louis yesterday pledged support to the memorial fund. The meeting was called by B. F. Bush, regional director of railroads. Solicitation of railroad employees in the offices, shops and roundhouses will follow a series of meetings. A railroad day will be held during the drive.

Represents Allied Toll Taken of 370 Completed Prior to Armistice.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The net bag of German submarines, destroyed by the American, French and British navies during the war, was 200 out of a total of 370 completed by the enemy up to the armistice, according to the War Cabinet Blue Book. Each of the three navies developed entirely different systems of submarine detection apparatus, and their results were constantly exchanged.

Way to Regain Robust Bloom of Youth

A smooth, velvety-soft skin, with a delicate peach-like bloom, is one of the Creator's most exquisite works. When the first blush of youth is over, this beautiful tint and satiny lustre are rarely seen. How to preserve them—that's the question. Famous beauty experts abroad long have known that ordinary macerated wax works wonders in this direction. It actually gives a new surface to the skin, restoring that marvelous girlish color and softness in a remarkable manner. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any drug store, will convert a faded, wornout, discolored, freckled or simply complexioned into one of captivating loveliness in less than two weeks.

No special skill is necessary in applying macerated wax. It is best smeared on at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.—ADV.

Service Car Law to Be Enforced.
Beginning Nov. 1 all automobiles carrying paid passengers must display a license tag which will designate it as a service car. An ordinance providing for such license has been in existence four years but the police never have been active in enforcing it. Y. W. C. A. LEADERS TELL OF WORK IN EUROPE

Conference of Field Workers Here to Consider Means of Raising $3,000,000 to Keep Plans Going.

Three leaders in the Y. W. C. A. foreign department explained this morning the social survey made by the association in Europe, South America and the Orient and the world program which has been formulated, to the South Central Field Workers' Committee, meeting in the local Y. W. C. A. auditorium.

The field workers' conference discussed industrial problems in the United States yesterday and Wednesday. Today's work tomorrow's program deals with the world plans of the association and means of raising a budget of $3,000,000 for carrying on the work opened up by the war.

Mrs. D. S. Brown, of St. Louis, chairman of the field committee, presided at the forenoon session. The first speaker was Miss Harriet Taylor of New York, who has been in France for the last 14 months, directing all of the Y. W. C. A. work in that country.

Tells of Work in France. Miss Taylor told of the work that had been done in France during the war and explained what the association intended to do for the American women in that country, the visitors who would come later and the French women who have awakened to the responsibilities which are outside their homes.

She said that the Y. W. C. A. has had 101 centers in France. This included hostess houses for American women war workers, for signal corps girls and for Queen Mary's Auxiliary Army Corps for British girls doing clerical work with the American army, for foreign brides of American soldiers, clubs for nurses for French industrial workers and for American women in leave areas.

She read a telegram which she had just received asking authority to begin work on three hostess houses near the American cemeteries. She said that the work of providing such houses was being done by the Y. W. C. A. at the suggestion of Gen. Pershing, who felt that some welfare organization should provide sleeping quarters for Americans visiting the graves of relatives. One house of this kind has been opened near the cemetery at Romagne, where 21,500 American soldiers are buried.

French Women Like Work. French women, Miss Taylor said, were particularly anxious to carry on the work that the Y. W. C. A. had started among the working women. French women will meet with American Y. W. C. A. workers this month to plan for this work.

Mrs. Katherine Eddy, acting executive of the foreign department of the national board, who has just returned from China and Japan, where she made a survey of the effect of the war on the women of those countries, said that as a result of the war there had been a rush of Japanese women into industries.

Five thousand, she said, were employed in the Government offices and many more had gone into the factories, where they worked at least 11 hours a day for small wages. She added that the working conditions, however, were comparatively good. The war had opened two great Japanese universities to women, and all the students had become great readers. Their choice was Russian and French fiction of the poorer sort.

Active in South America. Women are entering into industry in South America as they have in Europe, said Miss Bertha Conde, senior student secretary of the National Board, said in a review of her six months' study of conditions in South America.

She said the American association intended to spend $400,000 within the next two years in that part of the world. The South Americans are taking active interest in this work and at Buenos Aires they have raised $250,000 for a new Y. W. C. A. building. The natives had no sound social service program at present, but were waking up to the needs of the country.

Miss Conde and Mrs. Eddy will speak on "Pan-Americanism and the Orient" at a mass meeting in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium at 8 o'clock this evening. Tomorrow the conference will consider the needs of the girls in this country and will make final decision on the campaign plans.

A luncheon will be held at Hotel Jefferson tomorrow noon for delegates.

TRAVELOGUE MAN TELLS OF OCCUPIED GERMANY

Newman Says Military Spirit of the Germans May Rise Again.

Slides and motion pictures showing present, or at least recent, conditions in occupied Germany were shown at the Odeon last night by E. M. Newman, travelogue man. Scenes in Treves, Mainz and Coblenz were shown, and in many of the pictures the Stars and Stripes were seen floating where the German flag formerly flew.

Newman expressed the opinion that the German military spirit has not been crushed and that under conditions favorable to it this spirit may again in time cause trouble for the world.

Manganese on Island Near Tahiti. Correspondence of the Associated Press. Papeete, Tahiti, Sept. 14.—Valuable deposits of manganese are reported to have been found on the island of Rurutu, one of the Austral group, about 200 miles south of Tahiti. Germany to Be Minor Factor in World Without Sea Power, Predicts Von Tirpitz ADMIRAL CONCLUDES HIS WAR REVIEW

"Victors Have Deprived Our Poor and Politically Untalented Folk of Their Very Belief in Themselves" and "They Revile the Old State and Its Achievements."

By ADMIRAL VON TIRPITZ, Grand Admiral of the German Navy.

THE German nation had no comprehension for the sea. In the hour of destiny it made no use of its fleet. It only remains to me to raise a monument to it. The rapid rise of the German nation to the position of a great power and her still more rapid decline, through the temporary pitifulness of her policy and lack of national pride, is an unparalleled tragedy.

If we consider the tragic fate of our fleet, which is not to be separated from that of our people, we might form the opinion that any attempt of a European state to acquire an equal right to sea power side by side with England would be from the beginning doomed to failure. I believe that a detailed, unbiased history will not bear out this judgment.

Spain was in possession of the world of that time when England, in the struggle against the Spanish silver fleet, in the days of "Westward Ho!" developed from an agricultural folk into a pirate state, and finally destroyed the great Armada.

Spain was able to conquer by her military force and for a time retain her overseas colonies, but she lacked commercial activity, that second fundamental condition of lasting sea power.

Holland at one time had the best world trade and thereby roused the covetousness of England. She also possessed a good battle fleet which, under De Ruyter, by directing its guns against London, obtained a just peace. But Holland was a small country and possessed no hinterland of her own.

Germany lay torn by the Thirty Years' War, whilst Louis XIV committed the great historical blunder of attacking his natural ally, Holland, in the rear. But perhaps the Netherlands could have held out longer until the time when a new ally should arise for them in Germany, if only the Mynheers of Amsterdam had not thought too much of gain and clung too tightly to their money bags.

In spite of the urgent representations of their great Admiral they suffered their fleet to go to ruin in time of peace and so brought about the decline of Holland.

French Sea Power Aided Revolutionary America. The internal conditions in France caused her sea power to waver in the same manner and the course outlined by Richelieu and Colbert was thereby interrupted repeatedly. In spite of that, French sea power before the outbreak of the revolution was equal to that of England.

It was principally by its help that Washington gained the freedom of America. In India Guffren had held the balance of power against England and the Mediterranean was in the main French. The Revolution destroyed the French officers' corps and allowed the ships and personnel to decline.

Later Napoleon found that even he with his energy and genius could not conjure up a fleet at a moment's notice, and so the numerically superior French-Spanish fleet was conquered by the better quality of Nelson and his band of brothers.

The naval prestige then established by England outlasted the nineteenth century.

At the turn of the century Germany possessed all the fundamental conditions of sea-power—commerce and industry and the course of whose gigantic growth was almost too rapid, military comprehension, talent for organization, diligence, state power and love of country.

The time was short to make up for what had been neglected, but we were near our goal when a disastrous policy caused us to be confronted by the four strongest naval powers of Europe, of which England alone was doubly our superior.

Never Considered Full Victory Over England. From the beginning we could not reckon on a full victory, and overthrow of England, but I dare express the conviction that our sea power was sound and already strong enough to harass England to such a degree that we could have wrung from her the right to such conditions that we could recuperate our heavy losses.

To achieve this we should have comprehended the nature of the war of annihilation which was being waged against Germany, and in military matters, as well as political, acted accordingly, and above all ruthlessly staked our fleet at the right time under an individual command.

If we consider the rise of Prussia, Germany with any sense of the actual, from the complete disorganization which followed the Thirty Years' War to the height of our prosperity in July, 1914, it appears almost a miracle that we succeeded as we did.

Situated in the middle of Europe, disadvantageously as regards the ocean, possessed of only moderate natural boundaries, surrounded by nations who today, as for centuries, have been lying in wait to attack us—that is Germany's position.

Perhaps these vital conditions, but perhaps to a similar degree the characteristics of our folk, are the reasons why Germany's development to prosperity and power never did proceed from the folk itself, but are to be looked upon almost as a work of art, erected by a series of state constructors whose destiny gave to us in the last three centuries.

"OUR breakdown is not due to our old state system as such, but rather to its inadequate personal representation. Our upper classes had in part sunk into weak decadence. Materialism had spread the influence of universal suffrage, and vote by ballot, which always tends to lay power in the hands of the demagogues, was not sufficiently equalized by a strong Government or a steady upper class."—VON TIRPITZ.

Can anyone believe that the "Ewiges Reichstag" which outlived Frederick the Great, or the Frankfurt Parliament or any other plebeian body would have helped us forward? Prussian Germany was rather the work of single men who demanded subordination to the interests of the state, and who had the capability of keeping the aim in sight.

At the turn of this century we entered upon new conditions of life. Our nation with flourishing industries was forced to take part in international trade on a large scale, if it did not wish to be dwarfed.

States are upheld by the forces which created them. For Prussian Germany these forces were real power and devotion to the state as a whole, not the visionary project of a fraternizing of the nations which the Anglo-Saxons, in so masterly a manner, twice utilized successfully for the garroting of the German folk.

Powerlessness at Sea Will Further Germany's Decline. It is my conviction that the mission of Germany for the good of Europe and the whole world was not yet fulfilled. We had nearly succeeded in pioneering Germany into the new age. An already considerable sea power gave us in a high degree the means of maintaining peace with honor, or in case of necessity, of waging war with tolerable success.

It was, moreover, a great necessary instrument for bringing our people in touch with the working and the spirit of the world. When our future powerlessness at sea will have rendered our decline in maritime affairs and made reconstruction impossible, coming generations may call this fact to mind.

After peace and war, power and honor are lost, the victors stand on the ruins and write history. They deprive our poor and politically untalented folk of their very beliefs in themselves and of the logical consistency of their history. They revile the old state, its prosperity and its achievements, and above all its navy which was after all our best political trump card. They take the greatest care to tear the threads which bind us to past development.

Our Government stated no clear-cut aims nor held forth any encouraging ideals for the war. Nor did it open the eyes of the people to the terrors of defeat. The catchword "purely defensive war" was an illusion bound to lead to ruin because England had already, in the war, destroyed everything we had to defend except the chance to build anew.

How different was this course from that taken by Lloyd George and Clemenceau who led their people to victory. By his weak course Bethmann-Hollweg destroyed the spirit of the people and prepared the way for the breakdown and for the demagogues who meanwhile had seized the reins and who threw themselves at the feet of the enemy with the cry:

"We who have always believed in the conscience of the world forsware the execrable politicians who wish to represent you as rapacious enemies. We never desired victory. We even feared it because it would leave the yoke of autocracy's military caste around the necks of the enslaved German people. Now defeat has freed the German people from the despotism of the Emperor and militarism. Now we shall force you, not by odious power but by grand and good words to love the German nation and further its interests. We mean to earn the confidence of foreign powers. We are freeing the path of idealism from imperialism, that is we are not sowing in German hearts hatred of British imperialism which starved us out of France, Poland who tears us in pieces, but hatred of the men who once made the German Empire powerful, created army corps, built ships for our protection and created a stony barrier against rapacious neighbors."

Even in their day the Romans were able to build up their empire by means of the inward discord among the Germans. The Entente had the assistance of the envy of those who are always ready to destroy the true supporters of their economic existence.

Peace Offers Weakened Germany. Ever since 1917 the doves of peace flew continually over our heads bearing in their beaks as an olive branch the relinquishment of Belgium, and each of these offers strengthened the enemies in their determination to wait until their aim, the ruin of Germany, had been accomplished by the obvious inner decay.

To be sure the old state required certain necessary reform, but it possessed full capacity for development for the new age and the requirements of our children and their descendants. But the Revolution threw overboard everything which had made it great. It was the greatest crime committed against the future of our people.

Our breakdown is not due to our state system as such, but rather to its inadequate, personal representation. Our upper classes had in part sunk into weak decadence. Materialism had spread the influence of universal suffrage, and vote by ballot, which always tends to lay power in the hands of the demagogues, was not sufficiently equalized by a strong government or a steady upper class.

Says German Breakdown Was Due in Part to the Decadence of the Upper Classes Due to the Prevalence of Materialism, Leaving No Influence to Steady the Nation.

Thus the men in the government, in the Bundesrat or Reichstag who represented the state during the war were not equal to their tasks. If any one of the legislative factors had worked rightly, the disaster would never have occurred in this degree.

The enemy placed at their head dictators who, when necessary, enforced with iron means the determination to win and to annihilate their foes, by which the people as a whole were actuated. With us, the government in power allowed, open-eyed, the process of disintegration to go on in Germany's most dangerous hour when all thoughts and all hearts should have been united against the outer foe. The worst instincts of our people were fostered by that disintegrating non-German spirit which has gradually gained the upper hand with our people and which weak German national feeling seems too indolent to oppose.

A feeling for the whole, for the state in general, has hitherto been insufficiently developed in our democracy. The new era began by depriving our folk of their honor, in addition to their other misfortunes, and exposing them to the contempt of the world. In this manner only has it been possible for our enemies to destroy us so mercilessly, as now they are able to persuade the greater part of their populations, as well as the rest of the world, that we were criminals and deserved no better treatment. It only remains today for loyal Germans to concentrate themselves on the single aim of checking the madness, material and moral, and of holding up further ruin.

To save as much as possible of that which is German is worthy of the most strenuous efforts of our noblest.

German Potato Crop Short. BERLIN.—Official reports show there is danger of a potato shortage owing to bad crops in the eastern provinces.

EAT LESS MEAT IF KIDNEYS HURT OR YOU ARE BACKACHY AND RHEUMATIC
Meat forms uric acid which clogs kidneys; causes Rheumatism and irritates Bladder.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—ADV.

BELGIAN QUEEN SHARES HER LUNCH WITH BAREFOOT BOY

King Says Big Trees of Mariposa Grove Impress Him Most of Everything Seen on Trip.

MERCED, Cal., Oct. 17.—King Albert's basket luncheon in the Mariposa grove of big trees yesterday was as democratic as could be imagined. A special basket had been prepared for him, but he waved it away and said: "I will eat what the others eat." The Queen shared her luncheon with a barefoot boy. His majesty smoked long cigars and whenever anyone asked for a light, he was the first to fish a box of matches from his pocket. The King said the stupendous trees impressed him most of all he had seen on his trip and praised the Government system of national parks. "They are educational and help to make the people patriotic," he said.

Today, the King, Queen Elizabeth and Crown Prince Leopold are to view the strange devices of make-believe in movie land at Los Angeles. They are to meet the leaders of the motion picture world and be escorted through the studios.

PIONEER MEMBERS OF ST. JOSEPH'S PARISH

3 WOMEN PROMINENT IN HISTORY OF PARISH

Aged Members Are Center of Interest in St. Joseph's Jubilee to Begin Tonight.

Interest on the part of former parishioners of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Eleventh and Biddle streets, in the seventy-fifth (diamond jubilee) anniversary of that congregation, which begins tonight and concludes Sunday, centers about the three oldest living members.

They are Mrs. Margaret Goeese, 90 years old, 1903 East Grand avenue; Mrs. Caroline Mohrman, 87, of 3924A St. Louis avenue, and Mrs. Catherine Druhe, 82, of 3853 Page boulevard. Owing to their advanced age, they will not be able to attend the services, but they will be represented by three generations of descendants.

The ringing of the bells for 10 o'clock mass Sunday morning, which is to be the crowning event of the three days' celebration will have particular significance for the three pioneers because their names, with those of former associates now dead, are inscribed in the oldest of the group, which was placed in the tower a short time after the church was erected. They, as pupils of the parish school, subscribed to a fund with which the bell was purchased.

Was Largest Church in City. Singularly enough, in later years, their husbands were members of a committee which obtained money to buy more bells. The largest one in the belfry, the ringing of which requires the combined strength of six men, was adjusted under the supervision of Mrs. Goeese's husband, Joseph B. Goeese, a well-known building contractor of his day.

The Goeese contracting firm constructed additions to the original edifice, which made it in its heyday the largest church building in St. Louis. The same firm built the first residences in Portland and Westmoreland place and several of the first tall buildings in the city.

Mrs. Goeese is the mother of Father J. Bernard Goeese, director of the meteorological observatory at St. Louis University, and she presented him with the seismograph which is used at the university to record earth tremors.

Mrs. Mohrman is the widow of Peter Mohrman, who was the owner of the Richmond House, a hotel frequented by cotton planters in the early river days of St. Louis. She and Mrs. Goeese are related through marriage, the former's daughter, the late Mrs. Kate Goeese, having been the wife of Mrs. Goeese's older son, Joseph Goeese.

Made First Altar Cloth. Mrs. Druhe's husband was William Druhe, a lumber dealer, at one time identified with the political interests of the city. He was one of the financial backers of the Democratic organization under the former leadership of Harry B. Hawes. Mrs. Druhe resides with her daughter, Mrs. Clara Peltzmeier.

The first altar cloth used at St. Joseph's Church was made by Mrs. Goeese, and Mrs. Mohrman, who made her first communion with the original class of the parish, organized the first young girls' sodality. Her seven children, 21 of her grandchildren and three of her great-grandchildren have attended school at St. Joseph's.

An interesting feature of Sunday's mass will be the fact that two singers in the choir on that occasion will be Rudolph Keisker, 1437 North Eleventh street, and Anton Gulde, 3806A North Twenty-fifth street, who have been members of the same choir for 50 years, in which they never missed singing at Sunday mass nor at special service. Gulde is a tenor and Keisker a basso.

Organized in 1844. St. Joseph's, a German-speaking congregation, was organized in 1844 by the Jesuit order, by which it has been conducted ever since. Its large brick structure, with tall twin towers in a Continental style of architecture, is a landmark of the section immediately north of the central business district. The opening of Columbus Square a few years ago, gave the building a new and picturesque setting, and travelers have compared the square, with the church in the background, to some of the plazas of Latin-American countries.

In the period from 1870 to 1876, when Father Tschleders, S. J., was pastor, an average of 1200 communions were served each Sunday, and there were 231 baptisms, 50 marriages, 171 first communions and 81 deaths in that period.

Father Fred Hagemann, now spiritual director at St. Louis University, and Father X. Valazza, at present representing the Jesuit order in Cleveland, are the only surviving priests of former days of St. Joseph's. Both have been invited to attend the celebration mass Sunday. One of the most popular pastors of the parish was Father Lambert Etten, who succeeded Father Hagemann in 1881. Under Father Etten's direction the imposing new front and two towers with large bells and clock were built. He died in 1907.

The Druggist's Busiest Hours Are on Saturday nights. He will appreciate having you file your SUNDAY "WANT" ads during the afternoon—and you will get better service.

SIMPLE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—ADV.

MORE TEACHERS QUIT IN 3 MONTHS THAN IN 1915

Supt. Withers Cites Condition as Reason for Approving Proposed Increased School Tax.

Resignations received by the Board of Education since July 1 have almost equaled the total number received during the fiscal year ending June 30 and have exceeded those in 1915 by 16.

Better opportunities and better pay offered in other fields is given as the reason by Supt. Withers, who cites the condition as a reason why St. Louisans should vote at the special election, Nov. 11, for an increase in the school tax rate from 60 to 75 cents on the $100 valuation. This increased tax will be used to increase teachers' salaries. In an effort to keep them in this profession.

At the last meeting of the board 26 resignations were offered, 54 were offered at the September meeting and 14 were offered at the July meeting. No meeting was held in August. During the fiscal year ending June 30 only 98 resignations were received, an increase of 20 over 1915.

Losses in All Grades. The losses have come both in the elementary and high schools. In some instances the teachers have received 100 per cent more salary in their new work. Some of these men were receiving more than $3000 when they resigned.

Supt. Withers could not estimate how many more resignations might be expected because of low pay. He said that it had been the policy of the board to accept the resignations because it did not want to stand in the way of professional advancement.

BODY OF FANNIE SELLINS WAS MUTILATED, SHERIFF INTIMATES

Pittsburg Official Says Wound Was Inflicted After Autopsy to Give Appearance of Shot in Back.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 17.—Sheriff William S. Haddock of Allegheny County has sent to Chairman Kenyon of the Senate committee investigating the steel strike, a letter in which he virtually charges that the body of Fannie Sellins, formerly of St. Louis, an organizer for the United Mine Workers, who was shot and killed Aug. 26, at West Valley, where there was a strike of miners, had been deliberately mutilated after the official autopsy to make it appear she was shot in the back.

The death of the woman has attracted much attention because of charges made by labor union men that she was murdered by deputy sheriffs. The coroner's verdict declared she was killed during a riot. The miners charge she was shot to death while protecting children from the sheriff's deputies. The body was exhumed Monday at the instance of a relative and Wednesday labor men sent to Chairman Kenyon an affidavit signed by two physicians claiming that there was a gun shot wound in the back. The coroner's finding made no mention of such a wound.

TWO WOMEN AND GIRL HURT IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Mary Lally, 13, Probably Fatally Injured When Struck by Motor Car.

Miss Ida Watts, 20 years old, 1213 Lamt street, who at first refused to tell policemen anything about her self, was found at Shaw and Vandeventer avenues at 10 o'clock last night suffering from internal injuries of a serious nature. She was taken to the city hospital.

Police learned that the girl was a singer and had been visiting friends near the corner and on starting home had been struck by an automobile, westbound, in Shaw avenue, which failed to stop after the accident.

Mrs. Bessie Bearan, 41, of 216 Chouteau avenue, suffered a fractured leg and internal injuries at 4 p. m. when she was struck by an automobile driven by Frank Stephan, 3231 Franklin avenue, at Twelfth street and Chouteau avenue. She was taken to the city hospital.

Mary Lally, 13, of 2227 Malden Lane, was injured, probably fatally, doctors said, when she was struck by an automobile driven by Fred Tressler, 5137 Maffitt avenue, at Twenty-third street and Malden Lane, at 6 p. m. Her skull was fractured. She was taken to the city hospital.

MARRIED ON "FISHING" TRIP

Central District Policeman's Wedding Tipped Off by Best Mate.

The "boys" at the Central District Police Station are waiting, with rice and old shoes, for the return of Patrolman Henry Kaiser, who left the city yesterday on furlough to go "fishing."

Kaiser applied for a furlough and asked his best mate, Patrolman Harry Haynes, to go fishing with him. Haynes did, and when they met he found Kaiser in an automobile with Frieda Blonger, 2628 Ash avenue, and another girl. When the party reached St. Charles the car drew up in front of the Sixth Street Methodist Church.

The Rev. Frank Tucker performed the ceremony. After the marriage Haynes slipped back into the parsonage and asked Tucker to telephone the news to the Central District, foiling Kaiser's plans for secrecy.

Minister Killed by Train. HUNTSVILLE, Mo., Oct. 17.—Rev. Sam W. Johnson, 50 years old, a minister of the Holiness denomination and teacher at Gill School, near here, was killed when his automobile was struck by a Wabash passenger train three miles west of here yesterday.

ROAD COMPROMISE BY COUNTY COURT LIKELY

Members Believe There Would Be State and Federal Approval of Modification of Plans.

Members of the County Court of St. Louis County, who have under consideration specifications for county roads prepared by the State Highway Board after it had rejected the County Court's specification, today expressed the opinion that compromise negotiations with the State Board would be successful, and that there would be State and Federal approval of a modification of the State Board's plans.

The court favors less expensive construction on the St. Charles, Le-may Ferry, Gravois and Manchester roads than the State Board, in order that a greater amount of money should be available for road improvements in other parts of the county. Probate Judge Sam D. Hodgdon of Webster Groves, who usually is considered a spokesman for the Clayton officials, has prepared a statement defending the court and indirectly attacking the State Board.

Glaring Inconsistencies. "There are glaring inconsistencies in the state plan," he said. "For example, on the St. Charles Rock road it calls for brick costing $57,880 per mile to Lackland road and asphaltic concrete beyond to the Missouri River at $58,254 per mile, while on the Gravois road it calls for brick to Kennerly avenue costing $61,000 per mile, then one mile of hillside brick costing $48,000 and concrete to the Jefferson County line, costing $45,000 per mile, and connecting with a macadam road that cost about $5000 per mile. The St. Charles road has three times the travel that the Gravois has."

"On the Clayton-Manchester roads the State Highway Board is satisfied with a concrete road, yet on the Gravois they insist on brick, if we are to have Federal aid."

"The Federal Government has determined that a road costing $4000 per mile is ample for any traffic, at least they pay half the cost of construction up to that amount only."

"The people of St. Louis County were prompted in the bond issue campaign that the money would be spent in a manner to secure the greatest good to the greatest number of people in St. Louis County, and if the State Highway Board will furnish the excess of money necessary to build the more expensive type of State roads across the county which they deem necessary to care for the heavy traffic to and from St. Louis City across the county, the County Court will be able to keep their promises to the voters of St. Louis County."

One Alternative. Otherwise it will be practically all absorbed in the construction of four State roads built without regard to the rights and interests of the citizens of St. Louis County who will pay the bonds voted for roads, and make it impossible for the County Court to build the many miles of roads the St. Louis County citizens are entitled to have built.

We in St. Louis County have for years built and maintained roads in St. Louis County used for the business development of the city of St. Louis as well as its pleasure riders, without any assistance from the city and while we are glad to see the city of St. Louis develop, we believe she should be as progressive as her sister city of Hannibal, which helps to build roads across Marion County, and then goes beyond the county line and assists in building roads in adjoining counties—helps with money to build roads."

JAPAN PLANS TO APPROPRIATE $125,000,000 FOR AIR SERVICE

Program Indicates Intention to Strive for Place in Aviation Equal to Other Powers.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. TOKYO, Sept. 17.—The Japanese Government is preparing to appropriate the equivalent of $125,000,000 for the development of aviation, the amount to be expended over four or five years.

Interest in aviation has been stimulated here by the special French aviation corps which is teaching the Japanese army.

Japan is seriously backward in aviation and the fact that she is subscribing such a large amount of money indicates her intention to try to attain the place in aviation occupied by the other great powers.

PAULINE FREDERICK
in "BONDS OF LOVE"

It was love for her boy that bound her to the house of hate. It was the love that made her suffer in silence under the lash of scandal and suspicion—that sealed her lips when a word would have broken down the barrier of suspicion and misunderstanding between the husband and herself.

SUNDAY—D. W. GRIFFITH'S "BROKEN BLOSSOMS"

Suppose, Today, for the First Time in the World,
A Rose Bloomed in St. Louis!

—No one had ever seen a rose before today. Can you imagine how the beauties of this new wonder would be flashed around the world?

—Imagine if for the first time an airplane flew over St. Louis—no one had ever heard of the possibility before, and you saw it for the first time today.

Something Just as Wonderful Is Going to Happen in St. Louis—Do You Know About It?

—Europe says America never will be a great nation until she develops beauty, art. Our stage plays, they say, go no farther than America; our books are read only by Americans; only one American art is supreme around the world.

—This art, this new budding rose that critics—literary, dramatic and of the arts—have so proclaimed, is "Broken Blossoms," in the presentation of which are welded together painting, photography, the dramatic stage and music.

"Broken Blossoms" Over Night Will Become the Art Sensation of St. Louis!

—Voices cry to you from the mouth of beauty, silver shadows, symphonic voices from orchestra pit.

—Voices of all nations. And for all this a cry of thanksgiving that their search for beauty has been gratified.

All are happy. For, as Robert Louis Stevenson said, "The greatest happiness is the heart's happiness of tears."

—This happiness is found in "Broken Blossoms." It is D. W. Griffith's great production.

Sergt. Michael B. Ellis, his foster mother and three-months-old foster sister, Emily.

These photographs were made Thursday morning when the city's greatest war hero came back to the home at 1308 Cass avenue where he was reared and lived until he entered the army. Sergt. Ellis' exploit was second only to that of Sergt. York in that he killed or captured 53 Germans, with their machine guns, entirely unaided in the Argonne campaign just a year ago. The above picture shows Sergt. Ellis with his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Moczdlowski, and their daughters, Antoinette and Helen.

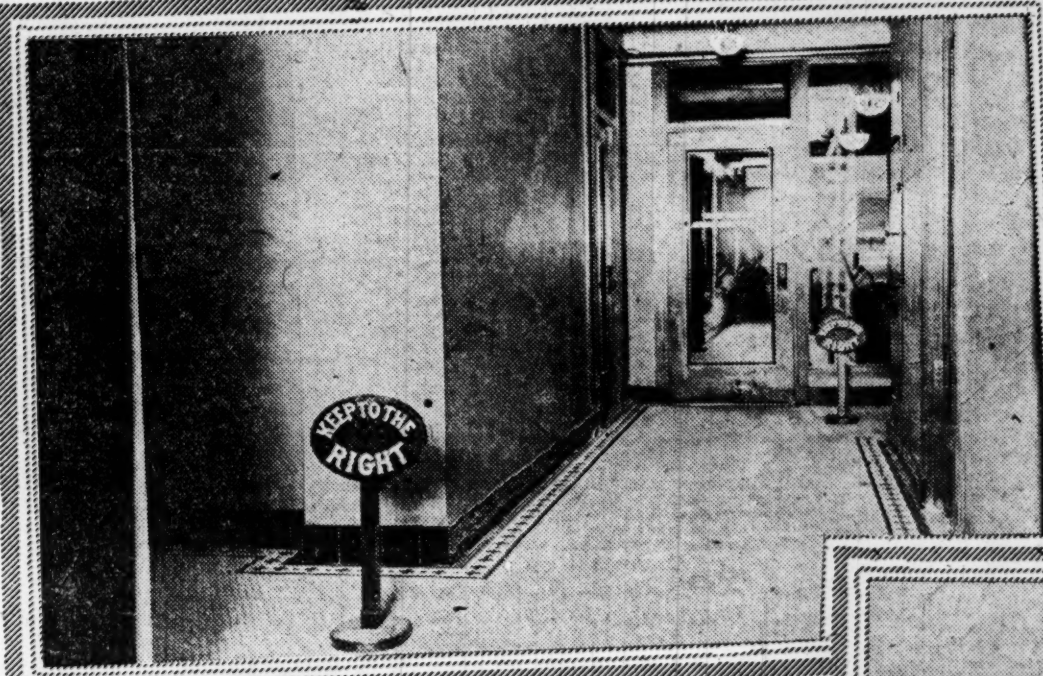

Home again on the steps of 1308 Cass avenue, where he lived since his adoption at the age of nine. Sergt. Ellis is now 25. He is wearing the cross of a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre with palms and the fourragere. His Congressional Medal has not yet arrived.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Tax Increase and Rents.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A short-sighted policy is being pursued by Assessor Wollbrink in his announced determination to make a standard of taxation 10 per cent of the gross rentals on St. Louis flats and apartments. Nothing better could have been thought of to prevent the building of needed buildings to house the constantly growing population of this city. The building permits will bear out what I say. Since the campaign inaugurated by Mayor Kiel and seconded by Assessor Wollbrink and the Complaint Board to penalize "profligate landlords" permits for new buildings have dropped to almost nothing.

Rents in St. Louis have been and are too low, compared to the initial cost and maintenance to make an investment of that kind a paying one. Up to six months ago rents were the same as they were 20 years ago, but the tenant in later years has demanded and received much more for his money than in former years. Landlords were compelled to furnish shades, screens, furnaces, hot-water heaters, electric and gas fixtures, enameled sinks, tiled floors in bathrooms and many other things, or else see their flats lie idle. I have owned a four-family flat for a number of years and can truthfully say "there is nothing in it." Between the destructive tenants and the "profligate" tax collector they do not leave ordinary interest; besides the care of the property requires a lot of attention.

I have two lots upon which I intended to erect apartments, but the action of Assessor Wollbrink has caused me to change my mind, and I am not the only one who has given up plans for building. In the seven years I have owned this property I have had my taxes increased four times without a corresponding increase in income. During that time I have put out in repairs an average of 4 per cent of the original purchase price per year. This is called "modernizing" a building—made necessary because tenants demanded the things the new buildings contained or "they would move."

Now, when the demand is in excess of the supply and owners desire to take advantage of the opportunity to put their property on a paying basis, the threat is made that all excess over the previous low rentals will be taken from them in the shape of increased taxes. Well, so be it. But, now the tenant will pay the increase. No matter how high the taxes are put the rents will be raised correspondingly. Thus you see, Mr. Wollbrink and Mayor Kiel will find that instead of befriending the "poor people" they are in fact doing the very thing that is making it hard for them. The Assessor admits that he is not treating the owners of business property as he does residence property. The fact is that downtown business property is and has been assessed on one-third of its real value, while residence property has been forced to pay on 70 to 100 per cent of its value. No explanation is made for this discrimination unless it is that downtown property is owned principally by capitalists who come in handy with their "influence" around election time, whereas the majority of rented property is owned by individuals, such as salaried men, widows, etc., who are not organized and therefore are of no value around election time.

Again I say there will be no new building of any consequence while this short-sighted policy is pursued, and that in any event the tenant will "pay the freight," no matter how high the taxes are.

NOT A "PROFITSEER."

Better Education in English.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

While the agitation is going on for increased salaries to teachers, with which every sane-minded person is in accord, let a word be said for better-educated teachers. It is true that they must put in many years at school, but it is only book knowledge and not practical knowledge gained by experience, that they have acquired. The result is that they cannot teach their students how to live in the every-day business world.

I have charge of many stenographers educated in the schools of St. Louis and its suburbs. They do not know the meaning of common business terms, cannot spell, punctuate or paragraph. Those who have attended high school have studied Keats, Shelly and Homer, but they do not know how to construct a simple business letter after 12 years in our public schools. The big business houses have learned that they must educate their own stenographers, and after six months to a year of intensive training can get letters written in words that make sense, correctly spelled and arranged.

In talking the other day with a high school graduate, who had just come and four years of English, I found she was completely ignorant of the meaning of such common business terms as invoice, bill of lading, bank draft, affidavit, etc. She was an extraordinarily bright girl.

THE AUTOCRAT OF THE MINE WORKERS.

The opinion of organized labor naturally condemned the head of the United States Steel Corporation for his arbitrary refusal to confer with the representatives of the company's employees. With that judgment, we believe, public opinion generally is in accord. But what is the verdict of organized labor on the action of Mr. Lewis, acting head of the United Mine Workers, in his acceptance of Secretary of Labor Wilson's invitation to join in an effort to prevent the bituminous coal strike?

It is true Mr. Lewis accepted the invitation, but he declined to comply with Secretary Wilson's request to postpone issuing the strike order until after the Washington conference. Apparently he showed that request aside as if it were of no moment. He disregarded it, not passively, but actively. The strike order had not been issued when Mr. Wilson's request reached Mr. Lewis. All the latter had to do was to postpone the preparation and mailing of the order. He chose, instead, to proceed with his strike plans as if the decision had been made.

Under the most generous interpretation his conduct can only be construed to mean that Mr. Lewis has very little confidence in Secretary Wilson's effort to avoid the coal strike. By action, far more emphatic than words, he has expressed his contempt for the undertaking. He goes to the conference, to be sure, but he has almost, if not quite, incapacitated himself morally as a conferee. The strike has been ordered. It can be revoked, of course, but its revocation means a retraction on the part of Mr. Lewis, which is bound to be somewhat embarrassing unless the demands are granted.

Is Mr. Lewis determined upon a coal strike? Has he made up his mind that nothing short of complete surrender by the operators can stop the strike? Are the good offices of the United States Government, when tendered by a member of the President's Cabinet, rejected in truth and accepted only conventionally?

Is that the attitude of the acting head of the United Mine Workers, and, if it is, what does organized labor think about it? Does it hold Lewis to be as offensively autocratic as Gary?

EIGHT-CENT FARES IN COURT.

A suit attacking the legality of 8-cent car fares has been begun by St. Louis City in a form which, provided the litigation is intelligently and energetically pressed, will make possible a comprehensive review of the many doubtful points in the case. So large an increase as one to 8 cents is declared to be unreasonable and unnecessary. This is a point not covered in past State decisions. By the time the proofs are taken, the effect on United Railways income ought to be apparent and it may be possible to show that a less rate, 7 cents or even the 6 cents which the city authorities originally suggested, is abundant to meet any legitimate traction company need. In addition, the change is attacked on the broad ground that abandonment of the franchise rate is such an impairment of a contract as falls within the prohibition of the State and Federal Constitutions. The contention as to the State Constitution has been swept away by the State courts, but the Federal citation will make an appeal possible to the United States courts.

Decisions of various courts as to the contract obligation are conflicting and confused. The injury of exorbitant, 8-cent fares is so great that St. Louis should not be satisfied with the present uncertain status of franchise validity. It should exhaust all possible remedies prior to complacent acquiescence.

The president of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association denies the price of shoes will fall and is plainly at a loss to understand how such cheap-skate rumors got started.

PORTUGAL'S NINE YEARS AS A REPUBLIC.

The Portuguese had excellent reason for celebrating with unusual ceremony this year the anniversary of their republic. It was on Oct. 5, 1910, that the King business played out in Portugal, a new government was proclaimed and Manuel II fled, a monarch out of a job, reduced to the resort of frequent and prolonged visits to the diminishing number of royal families in Europe which have succeeded in retaining their privileges.

The conditions giving rise to republics generally cause them to start off with a backing in popular enthusiasm that gives them a flattering prospect of success. Their serious troubles come later. But perhaps the institution of republican government was never attended anywhere with as dismal and uncertain an outlook as in Portugal. Manuel left behind a strong, persistent royalist party, including some of the most influential personages in the country. The first President, Dr. Theophile Brada, was credited with being visionary and incompetent to deal with practical affairs. Successful rule by the people presupposes an intelligent electorate, and 80 per cent of the Portuguese were illiterate.

But the Republic of Portugal has been strong enough to put down repeated monarchist uprisings. It has passed safely through the ordeal of the great war. Having endured for nine years, it may be confident, with growth in education, of indefinite perpetuity and, together with France, may exert a profound influence on the form of government in her Latin neighbor, Spain, and even on Italy.

There are wets over in France and Scotland who doubtless look upon the prohibition agitation as a joke. They'd better do their laughing now, for when the final returns are in the dries do the chuckling.

OUR EXILES COMING HOME.

American families which spend in London the money they make in America have encountered a dismaying tax crisis in which they are left with no alternative but the disagreeable one of returning to this country. The Washington, the state and the city governments are levying terrific taxes on their property and incomes. Then, after what is left is sent over to London in New York drafts, the British Government takes in taxes about half of this remainder. They complain that of each $100 in income, the two countries take all but from $29 to $32, depending on the form of investment from which it is derived. An American exile with $100,000 in annual income is left only a beggarly $30,000 in this double taxation, and one with $500,000 is forced to struggle along on only an inadequate $150,000.

Our affluent colony over there is made up very largely of persons who represent in the second and third generation the original men to whom American opportunity meant the amassing of a huge fortune. It will, of course, be distasteful for them to break up the colony and come back here and live with us until these days of cruel taxation are over, but the tax-pleasant experience will have advantages. They will get acquainted with their own country. They may find that it has attractions they did not suspect. They will learn how their properties are being administered. They may come to appreciate that wealth has its responsibilities to the country in which it is created, responsibilities no less to the toilers whose services it engages than to community and public.

Sergt. Ellis refuses to make a speech, preferring to let his deeds speak for themselves. They do it eloquently.

FUTURE BALLOON RACES.

Like his aid, Lieut. Verheyden, whose body was found in Lake Huron, Capt. Dammann of the Wichita doubtless has perished. Yet with Hawker's miraculous escape fresh in mind, the family and friends of Capt. Dammann will not wholly give up hope until the final proof is established.

The city will join with them in hoping against hope, but it is to the future balloon races and the means for preventing a repetition of this fatality that public purpose must turn. That such perilous enterprise is likely to levy a toll is acknowledged, notwithstanding that in the many years of these flights there has been but one other tragic ending.

The record seems conclusive proof that the contests have been conducted with care, that every precaution has been taken for the safety of the contestants. However, on the eve of this last race apprehension had been felt as to weather conditions in the Great Lakes region. The forecasts, if not forbidding, were far from reassuring. As it turned out, the weather conditions were bad. However, six of the seven entrants that reached the lakes succeeded in crossing and effecting safe landings, so that the disaster to the Wichita can hardly be charged primarily to the weather. It is of record, though, that when last seen the Wichita was descending rapidly, presumably to avoid a storm cloud. Whether this descent, admittedly swift, was a tactical maneuver or a fatal plunge due to some structural weakness or mishap can never be known.

The one line of policy which is counseled is that such races in the future should not be started except under favorable weather prospects. That is a chance to which the aeronauts are entitled and a condition upon which public opinion, to say nothing of the families of such adventurous spirits, should insist.

THE WELLSTON "MYSTICS."

The experience with some St. Louisans who have consulted certain Wellston fortune tellers is not the best reason for a State law to prohibit fortune telling. People who will put up $50 for "magic belts" and large sums for bottles of foul-smelling liquid to scatter around to drive away spells are not worth the trouble of legislation.

The Wellston "mystics" appear to be a bad lot. There may be one or two who sincerely think they are seers. It may be taken for granted that these do not use the flamboyant, county fair, promise-all style of advertising to call attention to their gift. The fact, as the news shows, that most of the swindlers are due to this advertising suggests a method of ridding the State of the fake spiritualistic mediums and fortune tellers without injuring persons who are genuinely engaged in occult investigation or religious work. The city ordinance merely prohibits mediumistic advice, for money, unless the medium is connected with a church. It is evident that a State law of this kind would not close up the fake establishments, which would shelter themselves under the guise of churches.

Gullible persons flock to the fakirs chiefly because they promise, in their advertisements, the discovery of gold mines or other treasures, the dispelling of charms, the overcoming of bad luck, the telling of "everything you wish to know," and other impossibilities that excite the imagination or the greed of customers. A law that prohibited all fortune-telling advertising and that adequately punished the obtaining of money for "charms," "magic" articles and other medieval acts of charlatany would make fortune-telling so unprofitable that the fakirs would go out of business.

The good name of St. Louis County demands that these swindlers be driven out.

The postal administration, says Mr. Burselson, is "remarkable in development, wonderful in organization, and its standard of efficiency borders on the miraculous"—but modesty, brute modesty, forbids the Postmaster-General from saying more.

OUR FRIENDS, THE BACTERIA.

An unsuspected advantage of the city as compared with the country is found in the opportunity which urban life offers for constant and intimate association with bacteria. A delegate to the convention of the Association of Military Surgeons is authority for the statement. He presents a plausible theory. The inevitable contact with those infinitesimal adversaries develops the city-bred person's powers of resistance to an extraordinary degree. The consequence is that when the urbane is projected into an unrestricted bacterial district, so to speak, he is able to ignore their attention or parry their thrusts. He has attained to a degree of immunity superior to that of the sheltered rural resident who has never encountered the bacteria in serried ranks.

The experience of the war might possibly be submitted as proof of this theory. The city soldier, as a rule, was less susceptible to disease than was the country soldier. Further, the city boy, in the average, showed superior stamina. But this fact was not accredited to the city boy's elbow-rubbing with bacteria. It was held that the city's inherent disadvantages had been overcome by its systematic health efforts—its hygienic standard, its provisions for regular exercise in gymnasiums, playgrounds and parks, its energetic interest in the whole subject of physical fitness.

But it may be that the bacteria, which we have been taught to regard as implacable enemies, whose malign objective was to increase our death rate, are a factor in producing a harder type even than the country's sturdy yeomanry. If further research establish this, the country, it may be permissible to say, should not, in envious mood, propose the elimination of the bacteria by fell legislative decree. While the cities may have their share of selfishness, they can rise to altruistic heights on occasion. It may confidently be asserted that the cities will gladly supply the country with all the bacteria it needs to achieve a virile race.

Division, not prohibition, should be the watchword of the relationship between city and country. There are bacteria enough for all.

NIGHT'S HARVEST.

I SAW the silver sickle
Slipping through the field of stars.
Lo, a path, lain low before it,
Spread the darkness arch.
One by one the stars slipped through
The curving blade that swung.

Night watched the harvest.
But the sickle wearied, falling
Through the starry way, while the Fields grew thicker strewn.
Thicker strewn, thicker strewn.

Morning came, with a golden urn
Upon her brow, and lo, she poured
The light upon the day, freely
From its throat, and her arms
Lifted high the golden fount.
Holding it for an instant poised,
Then dashing it across the field
Of day, to stand and watch it
Break upon the Western wall!

PATIENCE WORTH.

Chief of Police O'Brien, in his general order for the arrest of vagrants, says: "Our city must be cleaned at once, and for all Wime, of idlers and loafers."

If the Chief knows of any way to clean out the loafers now, so that they will stay cleaned out for all time, he should give his men a line on it. The ordinary police captain cannot be depended on to think it out for himself, and it is rather a power for the ordinary citizen. If the Chief can do it, or can tell his men how to do it, we fancy he will not have to worry about his job in future; and he may fairly expect posterity to build him a monument at least as big as that of Laclède, who merely founded the city, and did nothing to keep loafers away from it.

Recently a reader of Just a Minute went to Jefferson City, Mo., where he discovered at one point and another about the State Capitol the following legends:

Flat Voluntas Populi
Salus Populi Suprema Lex Esto

Latin is about the only thing he has never learned in the course of reading Just a Minute. He is a competent philosopher, speaks the King's English with respect for the King, has breadth, depth and horizon. However, he was unable to make out what these legends mean, and began to ask people. He asked ten. These were presumably all Missourians looking at their new Capitol. At any rate, not one of them could tell him what a single one of these legends meant. He had to come back to St. Louis and hunt up Just a Minute to find that "Crescat Civitas" means "May the State grow;" that "Flat Voluntas Populi" means "Let the people rule," and that "Salus Populi Suprema Lex Esto" means "Let the people's safety be the supreme law." Latin students do not all translate alike as to some of the kinks of the language, but those substantially are what the legends mean. Our reader was very glad to hear it. He says that while he knew Latin to be dead, he did not know it was quite as dead as he found it around the Capitol. He said to us: "Jefferson City is a cemetery for the Latin tongue." He asked us why those sentiments had not been expressed in English, in order that Missouri, thirty-second in education among the states, might read them. We thought that a fair question; and explained that while the State as a whole clings only to the vernacular, its founders knew and loved the classics, wherefore we find a reflection of them in all our State legends. The inscriptions upon the new Capitol are not peculiar to it. They were the only part of the old Capitol destroyed by the fire. Our reader thought if these inscriptions were put up in English the people might perhaps rule in Missouri, the State grow, and the safety of us all might be the supreme law. We expressed doubt of that. Latin or English, the politicians will rule; the State will hold back, and the party's safety will be the supreme law. We told him about it he went out sadly as one might from a debate in the Senate on the League of Nations.

There is a place out at Jedburg, in St. Louis County, where a road runs through private land. The owner evidently has trouble keeping traffic off his crops, for he has posted this sign:

Keep In the Road or Keep Out

Meaning, of course, that if you can't hold to the right of way you are not to use the road at all.

A GAME OF BRIDGE.

GOOD Player of Bridge, I fear I wrecked the game.

I offer apologies—
But you did look so "immanently respectable," almost prim,
And suddenly, the lights grew dim,
I saw, instead, a night detectable,
Wild roses in full bloom,
A golden moon beginning to loom
Over the far-away trees,
And a mad Summer breeze
Whispering secrets to us (to you and me),
And so, you see,
With my mind in another place,
I trumped my partner's ace!
Then finding you so shocked, and so conventional,
I said, "Forgive me, it was unintentional."

PROHIBITION ISSUE IN ENGLAND.

From the London Mail.
MR. WILLIAM E. JOHNSON of the Antislavery League of America has become a national figure in this country. The seal of fame is his in leading articles and in cartoons, in the home and in the city, on the music halls and at the cinema.

Mr. Johnson says he is glad of all this publicity. He has nothing to hide. He "wants the prohibition issue to be created." It has been created. For our part, we are not sure that he desired the issue to be created quite so speedily. Pussfoot and publicity are hardly synonymous terms. We venture to think Mr. Johnson and his associates, British and American, contemplated working behind the scenes far longer than they have in effect, been permitted to do—a matter of months. In the United States the "drys" did not court the X-rays of constant public attention; there is abundant evidence, on the contrary, to show that their system was to foster the apathy of the people and meanwhile, to use a "dry" verb to nibble patiently in the wainscoting.

We foresee how the "dry" campaign in this country will develop in the months and years to come. The "drys" have marshaled a lexicon of "facts" and "figures," scientific, moral, economic, showing that alcoholic stimulant is the basic origin of all earthly woes. With a feverish haste Pussfoot & Co. will apply these "facts" and "figures," largely founded on the abnormal and the extreme, whenever and wherever they get an opening. In drink they see but drunkenness and in beer only a brutalizing influence. No one desires to return to excessive drinking, and would like to see the eclipse of the public bar as at present conducted, but there is a long way between such reform and prohibition.

Did the Pussfooters mix less with misery and more with the moderate, normal world, had they the experience of the trenches behind them, they might detect in stimulant an influence other than brutalizing, an essentially humanizing influence, and one which contributes daily to the joy of living in a world that is often wearily drab.

It is now for the public to deal with Pussfoot & Co. as it deems fit. Ridicule may be a sharp weapon, but the foe is no longer the silly old Stiggins of old, but rather a powerful, well-camouflaged fanatic.

"The issue is created." Not the Liquor Traffic vs. The Prohibitionists. That is what the prohibitionists will try to make us, as they did in America. The issue is "Pussfoot vs. The Public."

ENGLAND'S GIFT TO BELGIUM.

From the London Express.
IT is certainly magnificent, and it may be possible to present Belgium, as a mark of British gratitude, with the most fertile portion of our own mandatory colony of what was German East Africa, and to place 5,000,000 natives under Belgian rule. It is of the less true that most of these natives will be greatly astonished by their own generosity, since they never heard of the gift until it was complete. We object entirely to this half-and-corner method of dealing with national property. We had the same criticism to make when the cession of Cyprus to Greece, a matter still in abeyance, was rumored. The "closed doors" method seems already to have ousted the ideals of open diplomacy, and the public chambers of today is utterly opposed to secrecy of Chamber. Foreign policy is no longer the business of a cultivated aristocracy, and the map of the world is no longer an esoteric state upon which High Contracting Parties of mysterious identity may write what they please before showing it to the common, ignorant people. We want to know much more about this gift of lands to Belgium. At least we had a right to be privy to our own testimonial.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

HOW DO THEY DO IT?

In a work on finance by a popular writer, I lately discovered a number of schemes by which the most stupid and ignorant blither could gather in wealth beyond Croesus' dreams. "This author," said I, "is a shark on the market. He's versed in all systems of piling up pelf. He tells how to harness a fortune—and park it. He must have no end of big money himself." But a week later on—when we happened to meet. He touched me for five—said he needed to eat.

A motor car expert who writes for the papers. On technical subjects has recently told The speediest mode of correcting the capers. That cars will cut up when the engine goes cold. "I'll try 'em," I said, as I folded the clipping. "Hereafter my flivver won't need to be towed. He's lucky, that fellow, it must be just ripping. To know how to fix up a car on the road." I met him that week as my flivver sped by. His motor was stalled, and he didn't know why!

Some cons ago, in my youth's early hey-day I used to sit up until midnight to read A method of getting more money on pay day. In a book that was called "Seven Ways to Succeed." "That man," I observed, "is a seven fold wonder. He's learned all the tricks and the kinks in the game. A person so wise couldn't know how to blunder. By now he must be on the top peak of fame." But I found later on that the gifted old bloke Had died in the workhouse, disheartened, and broke.

The Chicago Kind.

Mr. Packington of Chicago, visiting in New York, was introduced to a lady as from that growing town. "Ah," she smiled, with keen cynicism of the effete East. "From Chicago? I suppose you have Indians out there?" "Yes, madame, some," he replied humbly. "Ah! Aren't you afraid of being scalped?" "Not now, madame; not now," he responded, with profound sincerity. "I was before I came to New York, but having been skinned as I have by these New York Indians, I consider scalping by our Chicago breed as a mere bagatelle." Then there was a lull in the conversation.—Dallas News.

Andy, a negro porter at a Broadway theater, belongs to a lodge. The other night the lodge met to vote on the question of changing meeting rooms, but Andy didn't get there. Yesterday we met him on Broadway and he said the organization was to have new quarters. "Did you vote for a change?" we asked. "I wasn't at de meetin'," replied Andy, "but I voted by peroxide."—New York World.
